DALTON'S NEW HOME FOR:

Metro government?

Officials not optimistic despite ongoing merging of departments

By JAMIE JONES
jamiejones@daltoncitizen.com

Are the city of Dalton and Whitfield County headed for a combined, metro Dalton government?

After all, the county has already taken over the city's paving department. The two governments are currently merging their building and zoning offices. Talks between the city and county about combining recreation departments are moving along. There have also been discussions about a unified fire department. Dalton Mayor David Pennington doesn't envision one metro government. He points to Athens-Clarke County as one area that is "struggling" with the change and believes metro governments are "problematic."

"I see it more as an opportune time to combine overlapping services and to provide the highest quality of service to the most people we possibly can at an efficient price," Pennington said.

Both governments are looking to save money. Dalton officials shaved $5 million from the city's 2008 budget and the city currently has a budget of $27.6 million. Whitfield County officials are

Get some exercise while enjoying downtown

By CHARLES OLIVER

It took a few stomps and one full-body jump with both feet to get the new brick into the sidewalk on Hamilton Street.

"It's a lot harder than I thought it would be," said Northwest Whitfield High School student Sarah Beth Wooten.

Wooten and several other 4-H members from schools across the county came out this week to help the Downtown Dalton Development Authority (DDDA) mark three new walking trails in downtown Dalton. The students took bricks out of the sidewalk and placed in engraved bricks that mark the new trails.

"I come down here with my grandmother to shop sometimes. I can show her that we put those in there," Wooten said.

Liliann Sanchez, a New Hope Middle School student, was taking photographs when not helping to take bricks out of the ground.

"I'm in charge of taking photos for our portfolio," she said.

4-H is a youth program run by local county extension agents. Its members do several public service projects each year.

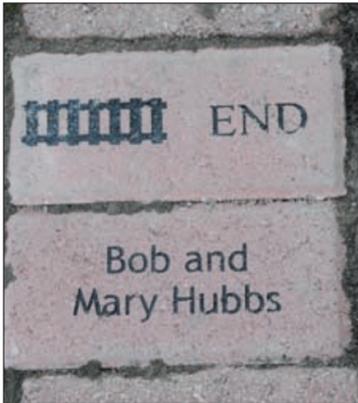

DDDA marketing director Veronica French said the group is creating a one-mile trail, a two-mile trail and a three-mile trail for walkers and runners through downtown.

"This is something we've wanted to do for quite some time. We had some

3 men sentenced for drug dealing

FROM STAFF REPORTS

Three people were sentenced to prison in federal court in Rome on Thursday for distributing drugs in Whitfield, Murray and several other North Georgia counties.

Jose Hernandez, 40, originally from Mexico, was sentenced to 20 years to be followed by 10 years of supervised release. Vance Rogers, 50, of Old Fort, Tenn., was sentenced to three years and 10 months to be followed by three years of supervised release. Paul Faulkner, 83, of Summerville, was sentenced to 20 years to be followed by 10 years of supervised release.

There is no parole in the federal system.

The men were the last defendants in what the U.S. attorney's office called a "large group" now sentenced to federal prison for distributing drugs in North Georgia. Other counties involved were Chattooga, Floyd and Gordon in Georgia, as well as Polk County, Tenn.

"The arrest and prosecution of these traffickers has significantly disrupted the flow of illegal drugs in Northwest Georgia," said U.S. attorney David E. Nahmias in a press release. "They were responsible for much of the marijuana being distributed in Chattooga County and surrounding areas, as well as a significant quantity of cocaine and methamphetamine. The lengthy sentences imposed should signal to others considering this path, or already on this

Murray schools may mow own grass

By RACHEL BROWN
rachelbrown@daltoncitizen.com

CHATSWORTH — Murray County Board of Education members are considering having school employees mow the grass, and they could be relying on volunteers to do a lot of the work.

Keller Outdoors of Chatsworth has contracted to maintain the school system's now 176 acres every year since 2002 except one, said owner Jim Keller.

During a school board work session on Thursday, finance director

Steve Loughridge said any cost savings should be considered in light of the need to cut $6.8 million from the $60 million budget that starts July 1. The last lawn care and maintenance contract, $138,900, expired in November with an option to renew.

Loughridge said he believes school employees can do the job themselves for about $27,000 this year by purchasing their own equipment, using their current

"Dr. Fromm's letter to the editor was right on. Politics as usual."

"Let me get this right. The city has a better rec department, a better fire department and a better building inspection department and they are talking about combining with the county. Nothing can happen but to bring the city services down."

"The rec department should stay as it is."

"In Murray County we have the best school superintendent we've ever had — someone with some backbone."

"Commissioner Ridley is doing a good job in Murray County — April Fools!"

facing a $4 million revenue shortfall and lowered the budget from $46.5 million in 2008 to $43.8 million this year. Local officials also cite House Bill 489, which mandates the non-duplication of services between cities and counties, as a reason to combine departments.

The city and county have some history of combined services. The Dalton-Whitfield Regional Solid Waste Management Authority was established in January 1995 as a nonprofit after city and county officials decided it made sense to have a single agency. On a philosophical level, county commissioner Mike Cowan said he supports a completely unified government as long as it makes economic sense.

Pennington said there are two departments that probably won't be combined: the city police and county sheriff's office.

"Obviously, the city of Dalton has much heavier policing than what the county has because we have a lot more dense population," Pennington said. "That's the only one that's not being looked at all at the moment."

County commission chairman Mike Babb insists despite the flurry of recent activity, the move to combine city and county recreation departments does not signal a bigger shift.

"This is us going for a metro recreation department, not a metro Dalton government," Babb said.

But much still has not been decided about the recreation departments' future. The city and county formed a committee to consider a merger of the departments and also the fire departments. The group has met five or six times and was part of a meeting with the county's Recreation Steering Committee Tuesday night. The recreation/fire department study committee members are Lane Ashworth, director of the local Red Cross chapter; county commissioner Harold Brooker; Dug Gap resident Mike Fowler; Tunnel Hill Mayor Kenny Gowin; Dalton councilman George Sadosuk; and banker Alan Wells.

The committee will recommend to the City Council and county commission whether to merge the departments. Pennington said that recommendation will come in a few months.

"You've heard me say this before, 'The mayor has a short attention span,'" Pennington said. "I don't believe in studying things forever. It shouldn't take that long — a matter of months — to come up with the plan."

County resident Michael Sanchez said he has heard "a little bit of talk" about the recreation departments being merged and is open to the idea.

"It doesn't really matter to me as long as we don't see a drop in services," Sanchez said.

path, that such criminal conduct ultimately leads to a prison cell."

Prosecutors said the Drug Enforcement Administration, Georgia Bureau of Investigation and the Criminal Investigation division of the Internal Revenue Service began investigating the group in 2005, focusing on members of a local family who reportedly had been distributing marijuana in Chattooga County and surrounding areas for almost two decades. The investigation found Paul Faulkner, his son Michael Smith and grandson James Faulkner had distributed "hundreds of kilograms" of marijuana during that time, while accumulating almost 40 properties worth more than $1 million.

Investigators eventually determined the family was being supplied by a group with ties to Mexico.

"This group, headed by convicted co-conspirator Geronimo Gastelum, moved to North Georgia from California in approximately 2005, and began to supply multi-kilogram quantities of drugs in the area, including methamphetamine, cocaine and marijuana," the press release said. "The drugs were brought to North Georgia from California, Arizona and Texas by various means, including tractor trailer. The drug organization hired individuals to pick up drugs in vehicles equipped with tires packed with marijuana."

In all, 10 people were arrested, and each pleaded guilty to drug distribution and money-laundering charges. Gastelum, 34, of Kerman, Calif., was sentenced to 14 years in federal prison. Smith, 46, was sentenced to nine years in federal prison and agreed to give up the properties bought with drug money. Bill Alan Garrett, 52, of Tennega, was sentenced to four years and three months in federal prison. James Faulkner, 36, was sentenced to nine years and nine months in federal prison. All of those prison terms will be followed by three years of supervised release.

Helping with the investigation were the Murray County Sheriff's Office, the Lookout Mountain Judicial Circuit Drug Task Force and the Chattooga County Sheriff's Office.

Afghan law legalizes rape of wife

KABUL — A new Afghan law makes it legal for men to rape their wives, human rights groups and some Afghan lawmakers said Thursday, accusing President Hamid Karzai of signing the legislation to bolster his reelection prospects.

Critics worry the legislation undermines hard-won rights for women enacted after the fall of the Taliban's strict Islamist regime. The law — which some lawmakers say was never debated in parliament — is intended to regulate family life inside Afghanistan's Shiite community, which makes up about 20 percent of this country of 30 million people. The law does not affect Afghan Sunnis.

Properties available for events

SUBMITTED BY THE WHITFIELD-MURRAY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Whitfield-Murray Historical Society is alive and well with three museum properties in operation in Murray County — the Old Spring Place Methodist Church, the Historic Wright Hotel in Chatsworth and the Old Chatsworth Depot. An auxiliary of the society, the Friends of the Vann House, supports this state-operated historic site also.

The society is headquartered at Crown Gardens and Archives on Chattanooga Avenue in Dalton. Crandall resident Erik Gallman is the new executive director. The society also has other projects underway throughout the county. Among them are signs for historic cemeteries, several publications and national register nominations.

Relocated to First Avenue in Chatsworth, the old depot was built in 1905 and is the last such structure in the county. It houses displays of railroad and talc history. It will soon be the location of a used book sale to benefit this project and the growing genealogy collection at the Chatsworth-Murray County Library.

In downtown Chatsworth at the corner of Market Street and Second Avenue, the Wright Hotel is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. It was built for the Thomas Wright family in 1909 and opened for business in 1910. It was operated by the family for more than three decades, then leased by others until the 1960s, and eventually became the home of Katherine Wright Raine in the 1970s. Upon her death, it became the property of the historical society. Today, the amazing property is open for group tours by appointment but is also available for special events such as meetings, showers, reunions and weddings.

The Old Spring Place

Methodist Church, built in the 1870s, is now Murray County's oldest public building. It, too, has a museum of local history and an archives area. The church is also available for rent for special functions. A reasonable fee is charged for use of the structures.

To reserve a facility, call the historical society at (706) 278-0127, Ralph Ausmus at (706) 695-9808 or Tim Howard at (706) 695-2740.

The society will offer a new and revised version of the popular Murray on My Mind class this summer in cooperation with the Murray County school system. The days will be June 1-5.

The one-mile trail is called the Peacock trail. The two-mile is called the Train Track, and the three-mile is the Liberty Tree trail, named after the Liberty Tree that stands at City Hall.

Three miles is also roughly five kilometers, and French says the city plans a five-kilometer run along the trail later this year during the Liberty Tree Day celebration.

The kickoff day for the trails will be Wednesday, National Start Walking Day. Beginning that day the DDDA will have a place on its Web site (www.downtowndalton.com) where people can record the miles they walk on the trails. Those who walk at least 100 miles will get a free T-shirt commemorating the feat.

French said the DDDA has about 50 decorative bricks left. They cost $50 and can be engraved with names or other messages.

Schools close in S. Georgia

ATLANTA (AP) — Officials say heavy rain has led to the closing of schools in 20 Georgia districts and part of Interstate 75 in south Georgia.

Small creeks and streams, along with numerous streets and underpasses also flooded Thursday after two days of rain up to eight inches.

Ken Davis of the Georgia Emergency Management Agency says traffic on I-75 northbound at Cordele is being rerouted because of water over the roadway.

GEMA says schools will be closed today in Appling, Atkinson, Ben Hill, Berrien, Brantley, Brooks, Colquitt, Crisp, Liberty, Long, Lowndes, Miller, Mitchell, Pierce, Tift, Turner and Wayne counties, as well as the city of Thomasville. Schools were closed Thursday in Baker and Cook counties, and residents were asked to contact local officials about a decision on whether they would be closed today due to roads hazardous to buses or impassable.

Two stole bank IDs of servicemen

ATLANTA (AP) — Two men who used phony IDs, including those of members of the military serving overseas, to access bank accounts have been sentenced to federal prison for fraud.

Sept. 25 to aggravated identity theft and access device card fraud.

Dontarrion Bratton of Austell was sentenced to two years, six months and must repay more than $150,000.

Who's the boss?

President Obama fired General Motors Chief Executive Officer Rick Wagoner over the weekend, ostensibly due to his failure to come up with a "plan" acceptable to the administration. If he hadn't cleaned out his desk and surrendered his key to the executive washroom, he was told there would be no more taxpayer dollars to keep GM afloat.

CEOs of other corporations taking federal bailout money surely have taken note. The stock market certainly did when the news hit.

If you are not worried by the Obama administration's audacious grab for the commanding heights of the U.S. economy — the banks, the insurance industry, the giant too-big-to-fail manufacturers — you should be. Treasury Secretary Tim Geithner even suggests that government takeover of private corporations that have not accepted federal loans would be warranted, if considered necessary to rescue the overall economy.

The question boils down to this: Would it have been better to let well-established bankruptcy law apply to GM (and other failing corporate giants) rather than suffer Washington's continued exertions on its behalf. ...

Or, to put it another way, would you like your next car designed in Washington rather than in Detroit?

The Post and Courier, Charleston, S.C.

What accountability?

When bank giant Washington Mutual collapsed last year, news reports highlighted the bank's jaw-dropping lending practices, such as giving a loan to a mariachi singer who claimed a six-figure income.

Unable to verify the singer's claim, WaMu officers simply photographed him in front of his home wearing his mariachi outfit. His loan was promptly approved.

Now it turns out the federal government had its own WaMu going on.

Lax oversight at the Small Business Administration allowed unqualified companies to collect at least $30 million in federal contracts from a program designed to help small businesses in poor areas, according to the Government Accountability Office.

The SBA routinely failed to verify paperwork or to audit the program to prevent fraud from large firms that falsely claimed to have offices in poor neighborhoods. ...

The probe, which examined select contracts from fiscal years 2006 and 2007, found that the SBA asked for supporting evidence from only a third of applicants and visited the site of only a few companies.

The agency's failure to conduct even these elementary checks is appalling and clearly let the program become a vehicle for waste and fraud. ...

It's imperative that the administration set up more strict oversight procedures at the SBA to ensure this money goes to companies that truly need it.

A shut-up Congress

Deliberation in Washington is dead. We don't have legislators. We have lemmings. We don't have debates. We have high-speed hysteria sessions. After ramming through stimulus legislation that no one read and bailout bills that no one understood, Congress is now poised to stuff down taxpayers' throats a deficit-exploding $3.5 trillion budget that enshrines the largest tax increase in American history.

Welcome to the cap-and-trade crap sandwich.

The Democrats want to rig the game so you don't have time to figure out this latest act of collective thievery before it's perpetrated. They have been colluding on a plan to circumvent the Senate's 60-vote threshold and amendment process by attaching their massive green tax scheme to a special budget legislative maneuver ("budget reconciliation" in the parlance of the Washington sausage-makers). No less than Democratic Sen. Robert Byrd criticized this short-circuiting of debate as an "outrage that must be resisted" and "an undemocratic disservice to our people." But the eco-zealots on the Hill seem hell-bent on telling Americans to shut up and swallow.

On the Senate floor Tuesday, Republicans valiantly tried to stop the cap-and-trade bullet train — only to be met with histrionic entreaties from the likes of Sens. Barbara Boxer and Dick Durbin shrieking about floods, dinosaurs and The Children. Boxer and Durbin indignantly accused GOP senators of "fear-mongering" over the costs of radical and their grandchildren perishing like the prehistoric creatures who once roamed our doomed planet.

GOP Sens. Jeff Sessions of Alabama, Judd Gregg of New Hampshire and John Thune of South Dakota pushed back. President Obama, the Republicans noted, said last week that the cap-and-trade component of his budget is "nonnegotiable." This global warming reduction proposal amounts to an unprecedented national energy tax on every man, woman and child. Every household. Every business.

Far-reaching and regressive, the White House's own budget officials first pegged the price tag at $646 billion, but admitted to Senate staffers that the actual number would be "two to three times" that figure — which means an estimated $1.3 trillion and $1.9 trillion between fiscal years 2012 and 2019 by the Obama number-crunchers' (or rather, number-cookers') own calculations.

There's no pretense about the impact these measures will have on taxpayers: "Under my plan of a cap-and-trade system, electricity rates would necessarily skyrocket," Obama admitted during the 2008 campaign.

green-house gas emissions reductions. Then, without missing a beat, the Democrats returned to their wild predictions of the earth fizzling up "That will cost money. They will pass that money on to consumers."

White House Office of Management and Budget Director Peter Orszag again acknowledged last week that "much of (the) costs of the plan will be passed along to consumers in the form of higher prices for energy and energy intensive goods." The GOP puts the cost at approximately $3,100 per family a year. Team Obama promises to offset these costs with some sort of tax credit for families, but by the budget team's own admission, families would still pay at least $500 per year in out-of-pocket increased energy costs above and beyond the credit. Retirees and college students wouldn't be eligible for the tax rebates.

This is not "fear-mongering." It's fact-mongering. And these facts deserve to be fully weighed and laid on the legislative table before Washington lawmakers take action again to drastically alter the economic landscape — and stick us with the bill.

But once again, the big spenders in Washington can't be bothered with the deliberative process. They have learned nothing from the AIG bailout rush-and-take-back debacle. Or the porkulus waste debacle. Or the TARP-you-can't-believe-in-debacle. The lemmings will only contemplate the consequences of their Chicken Little actions after they've sent the economy permanently over the cliff.

My targets are plotting against me

We are four months into the new year, and I have heard nary a public peep from President-for-Life Jimmy Carter, our Ambassador to Outer Space Cynthia McKinney or noted land baron Ted "Buffalo Boy" Turner. Churning out breathtaking prose week after week is hard enough without having this crowd go mute on me. Their loose lips are generally good for at least a half-dozen columns per annum. If I didn't know better, I would think they are plotting against me.

Ring! Ring!
JC: "Ted? Ambassador McKinney? Thanks for taking the time out of your busy schedules for this conference call. I want to discuss what we can do about this Yarbrough fellow. I believe you will all agree that he shows us no respect. My friends in Hamas have suggested I dress him up as a goat and send him to Palestine in time to be the entrée at the next Moose Club banquet. I wanted to see what you two think. Maybe we should all ..."

TT: "Mr. President, I wish I could help you, but I am very busy buying the state of Idaho to hold some of my buffaloes."
AOS: "Is Idaho anywhere near Saturn?"

JC: "What fries my hide is that he won't stop harping on the racist campaign I ran for governor. If I hadn't acted like a racist, I could never have been elected governor, then president, then Nobel Prize winner, and today nobody would buy my bad paintings. Every time I ..."

AOS: "I wish I was back on Pluto. Ever been to Pluto?"
TT: "I think I bought Pluto a few years ago. Or, maybe it was Peru."
JC: "He thinks my criticizing a sitting president while on my world travels undermined our foreign policy. I am an expert on foreign policy. Remember, it was I who got rid of the Shah of Iran, which enabled the Ayatollah Khomeini to take his rightful place as the head of the country. Things have gone swimmingly in Iran ever since. I don't know foreign policy? Forgive my language, but Pish!"
TT: "Where is Pish? It sounds like a good place to raise buffaloes."
AOS: "We have buffaloes on Uranus. At least I think they are buffaloes. They are green, have three eyes and light up at night."

JC: "And when I refused to go the funeral of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. but made my sanctimonious speech at the services for Coretta Scott King, he found that hypocritical. Pish! What he doesn't understand is ..."

TT: (Yelling off line): "Rufus, find out where Pish is and let's buy the place. The president keeps talking about it."

AOS: "I am beginning to see moonbeams in my head."

JC: "After I wrote my book accusing Israel of apartheid, he thought I should debate the issue publicly. What is the point of debating when you know you are always right? It is obvious that he ..."

TT: "If you think it would help, I could coat the guy in salt and let my buffaloes lick him to death, but I'm trying to buy Australia right now and it is going to be a month or so before I can get to it."

AOS: "The moonbeams are getting brighter. It's time to go."
JC: "And then you both remember the time he said ..."

TT: "Mr. President, I hate to cut this short, but I have Jane Fonda on the other line. I'm thinking about buying Vietnam. If I do, she wants to get her helmet and go sit on a tank and say stupid things. I don't have the heart to tell her she has already done that."
AOS: "Good-bye, earthlings. If you need me, I'll be in San Francisco. It is just like being in Outer Space, except the food is better."

TT: "I'll probably be in Pish. Thanks to your recommendation, Mr. President, Rufus just bought 4 million acres there."

JC: "I could just scream."

Littles to head up Red Cross Heroes Campaign

SUBMITTED BY THE DALTON-WHITFIELD CHAPTER OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS

Community leaders Norris and Billie Little will chair this year's 2009 Heroes Campaign for the Dalton-Whitfield Chapter of the American Red Cross.

"Around the world, around the nation, around the corner, there is a place where people help others in need, where people will give whatever they can to feed and clothe victims of unimaginable disasters a world away or a state away, where business owners and community organizations raise funds to help provide food and shelter for thousands of people who have lost their homes and livelihood," the Littles said. "That place is Whitfield County.

"For more than 127 years the American Red Cross chapters have provided our communities with heroes, volunteers who have saved lives and helped countless families survive and recover from disasters. Now we are asking you to be a 'Hero for the American Red Cross' campaign. This community has demonstrated its generosity and willingness to help with major national and international disasters. Now we are asking you to step up to the plate again to guarantee that we take care of disaster victims right here in Dalton-Whitfield County."

They said the Dalton-Whitfield Chapter "has been a part of this community since 1917. The services your local chapter provides are Armed Forces Emergency Services. Twenty-four hours a day, 365 days a year, the Dalton-Whitfield Chapter is there for military members and their families, delivering emergency messages. The Dalton-Whitfield Chapter helps local families keep in touch and provides timely, accurate and verified information following the death or serious illness of a family member, the birth of a child or other critical family matters.

"Disaster response is also another valuable service that is offered. Whether the disaster is a tornado, flood, hazardous chemical spill or single-family fire, the chapter is prepared to provide immediate emergency assistance to families affected by the disaster. This assistance includes vouchers for immediate shelter and food, temporary housing, groceries, clothing, basic household items or vital medication.

"In addition to basic assistance, the chapter may provide necessary items lost in a disaster, such as eyeglasses or tools necessary for work. Clients' needs are determined on a case-by-case basis. The chapter also offers disaster preparedness education by employees and volunteers, and not mowing some portions of their property.

Keller said Dean Donehoo, the school system's director of administrative services, told him in November that the contract would be renewed. He said Donehoo approached him three weeks ago to say there was a possibility that wouldn't happen.

Now Keller says it's unfair that the school system won't even consider his request to submit a proposal that would cut costs while doing a more efficient job than could be accomplished in-house. Keller said he purchased several thousand dollars worth of heavy equipment to win the bid for Murray County Schools based on the assumption the school system would renew the contract for several more years. He said he doesn't use the equipment anywhere else.

"We think we can be as efficient, or cheaper," Keller said.

Keller and landscape architect Jeremy Collis spoke to the board members for more than half an hour and asked officials to provide an estimated cost savings. None was publicly stated. A copy of the school system's anticipated cost savings — $363,000 over three years — was provided to The Daily Citizen after they left.

The mowing contract ran from April to November, and Loughridge said it's imperative to make a decision soon.

Board member Rickey Mallett said cutting the mowing contract could help save other jobs in the system.

"When you start cutting teachers pay and letting our people go, I don't want to see a teacher looking out the window and seeing people mowing and they're having to lose their pay," he said.

Board member Crystal Felty said the board didn't have enough information to make a decision the same night. Officials plan to address the issue at their next meeting on April 13.

Loughridge said state money the school system will receive next year is about $600,000 less than they were told only a few weeks ago. That means next year's fund balance — money left over — will be zero by June 2010, he said.

Board members have proposed docking the local teacher supplement from an additional 9 percent of their state salaries to 7 percent. There is also a proposal to cut classified — non-teaching — employees' paid days by five. More than 30 teacher positions won't be filled for the upcoming school year, and officials are also examining other possible cuts.

Murray County High School principal Gina Linder said booster club members already do a lot of the grounds work on the fields.

"I think anything is possible, especially when you're in a time of economic need," she said. "Most of our campus is parking lot and athletic facilities."

Dawnville students learn business

Robin Gordon's kindergarten class at Dawnville Elementary School enjoyed authentic learning experiences during their social studies unit on Goods and Services.

The students were part of a mini-economy. They used miscellaneous items sent in by parents to make goods to sell.

Students made bracelets, necklaces, bookmarks and many other creative products. Students learned about working and earning money while making items to sell in the class store.

Later, the students used the money that was earned to purchase some of these items. Students could also spend their money for services such as nail painting.

They learned that a "good" is something you can feel and touch, and services are things like getting your car washed or going to the movies. Math concepts were reinforced during this unit. Students used money and counted out their pennies to pay for their purchases.

1-day ServSafe training offered at Dalton State

SUBMITTED BY DALTON STATE COLLEGE

The Center for Continuing Education at Dalton State College will host a single day ServSafe training on Tuesday for busy food service workers who don't want to be away long from their places of business. The food safety certification course satisfies the state of Georgia requirements to become a certified food safety manager.

"We know how difficult it is for busy restaurant and cafeteria managers to get away from their work," said Dalton State continuing education director Pam Partain. "We designed our course to be completed in a single day with the certification test and all. The class will be Tuesday, April 7, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m."

Georgia obligates all food service establishments to employ at least one certified food safety manager at each of their locations, said Partain. "A poor score on the restaurant report card can be devastating to a food service business. ServSafe classes educate restaurant managers on all aspects of food safety," she said.

"Our ServSafe class' one-day format is ideally suited to the busy lives of restaurateurs and food service professionals," said Partain. "Those who attend will be able to learn the required material and take care of their certification exam all in the same day."

Among the topics covered are food safety, food hazards and the microworld, personal hygiene, Hazard Analysis Critical Control Point System (HACCP), purchasing/receiving safe foods, storing foods safely, maintaining food safety through preparation and service, cleaning and sanitizing facilities and equipment, integrated pest management and regulatory agencies and inspection.

The registration fee is $165 and includes class materials, lunch, refreshments and certification exam.

Line-welding source of blasts heard in area

The Tennessee Valley Authority was responsible for explosions that were heard near the north bypass and Cleveland Highway area, a spokesman said Thursday afternoon. The federal agency was installing high-power transmission lines on steel towers.

"When the lines are spliced together there's an explosive process using a charge that welds the lines together," said Gil Francis with TVA.

Thursday was expected to be the last day for the work.

Obama hails economic summit

LONDON — Concluding his first international summit, President Barack Obama hailed agreements at the emergency meeting of world powers Thursday as a “turning point in our pursuit of global economic recovery.” But he cautioned, “There are no guarantees.” The new U.S. leader said the heads of industrial countries that met in London agreed on “unprecedented steps to restore growth and prevent a crisis like this from happening again.” He spoke shortly after G-20 leaders pledged an additional $1.1 trillion in financing to the International Monetary Fund and other global institutions and declared a crackdown on tax havens and hedge funds. The leaders announced the creation of a supervisory body to flag problems in the global financial system — but did not satisfy calls from the U.S. and others for new stimulus measures.

Powers pledge billions to combat global crisis

LONDON — Anxiously assembled at the most perilous moment for the global economy since the Great Depression, the world’s financial powers pledged more than $1 trillion Thursday for emergency loans to combat spreading chaos. But they rebuffed President Barack Obama’s bid for new stimulus spending and made no guarantees of success. “This was the day the world came together to fight back against global recession,” declared British Prime Minister Gordon Brown, the summit host, as he led a choreographed show of unity designed to boost confidence in homes and boardrooms everywhere. Besides promising $1.1 trillion for lending to less-well-off countries — an effort to contain the economic contagion and prop up remaining markets for bigger nations’ exports — the Group of 20 industrial and developing countries vowed major efforts to clean up banks’ tattered balance sheets and get credit flowing again and to tighten regulation over hedge funds and other financial high-flyers in the U.S. and elsewhere.

North Korea starts fueling rocket

WASHINGTON — As North Korea fueled a multi-stage rocket Thursday for its threatened satellite launch, President Barack Obama promised a “stern” response and Japan vowed to press for an emergency session of the U.N. Security Council. Senior U.S. defense officials said that trailers and vehicles carrying rocket propellant were in place at North Korea’s coastal launch site and that fueling had begun. A U.S. counter-proliferation official said the fueling process could take “up to a few days.” But a senior U.S. intelligence official told The Associated Press that Pyongyang was on track for a projected Saturday launch.

Mexico arrests major drug suspect

MEXICO CITY — An heir to one of Mexico’s most notorious narcotics empires was grabbed by police as he exercised in a city park, officials announced Thursday, shortly before U.S. and Mexican Cabinet officials met to coordinate attacks on escalating drug violence. Carrillo Leyva allegedly inherited a top position in the Juarez cartel from his father Amado Carrillo Fuentes, who was nicknamed “the Lord of the Skies” for sending jetliners full of cocaine to the United States. The father was considered Mexico’s No. 1 drug trafficker when he died in 1997 during plastic surgery to change his appearance. The U.S. Embassy said Thursday that the embattled remnant of his cartel is still “one of Mexico’s most ruthless organized criminal gangs, which controls one of the primary transportation routes for illegal drug shipments into the United States.”

Volunteers help maintain trails

SUBMITTED BY THE CONASAUGA RANGER DISTRICT

Trails don’t just happen. It takes a lot of hard work and commitment from people who care about their natural resources. The Conasauga Ranger District based in Chatsworth considers itself very fortunate to have just such people.

Twenty Chattahoochee National Forest volunteers from nearby Dalton and Varnell and from as far away as Atlanta, Douglasville, Chattanooga and Chickamauga participated in a trail maintenance work project recently. Their task was to maintain erosion control structures on the Panther Creek Trail in the Cohutta Wilderness. The volunteers were treated to a beautiful view of the wilderness from the top of Panther Creek Falls.

“I continue to be amazed by the dedication of the Team Conasauga volunteers,” said district ranger Michele Jones. “We applaud their efforts and appreciate their help. Our trails are some of the best maintained in the Southeast thanks to these outstanding individuals.”

A volunteer trail project is scheduled for each month. According to recreation manager Larry Thomas, “Our award-winning volunteer program has been going strong since 1990. We have hikers, equestrians, mountain bikers and motorized trail users all involved and working side by side. Our volunteers come from all walks of life, but they all share a love of the outdoors and a desire to give something back.”

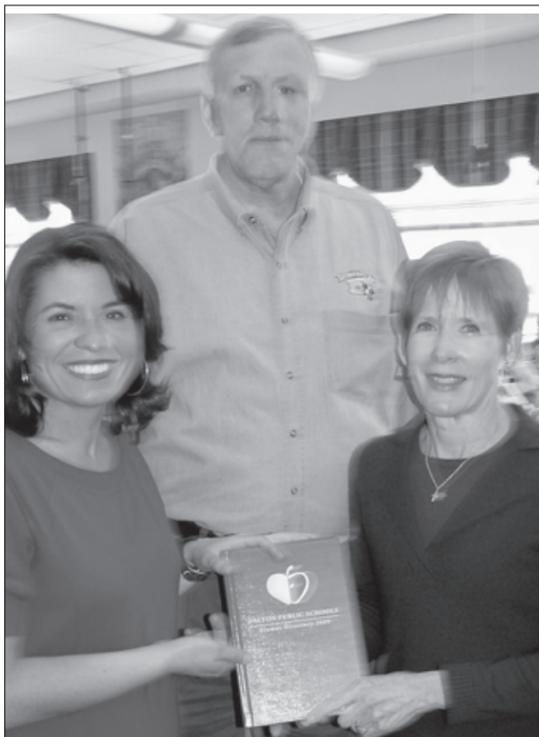

“So what does it take to be a Forest Service volunteer? Just a positive attitude. No experience is necessary and there is no obligation. We’ll provide you with all the tools and training you’ll need. We have a fun time, it’s satisfying work and an added advantage is you will gain an insider’s view to the 300 miles of trail in our area,” Thomas said.

For more information about the Forest Service volunteer program or to sign up, call (706) 695-6736 or e-mail elang@fs.fed.us.

Work on Monday affects River Road

Motorists traveling River Road coming off Lower Kings Bridge Road will need to find an alternate route Monday morning, Whitfield County officials say. Starting at 8 a.m. public works crews will replace the cross drainage tile, which means they will have to dig up the road. The project will affect River Road, addresses 2301-2340. The stretch of road will be passable for vehicles by Monday afternoon, but the entire project may take between two to three days. Crews will be dealing with fiber optic and water lines. Brown Road or Riverdale Road may be used as alternate routes.

Dalton State professor Price honored by Board of Regents

Several Daltonians attended the University System of Georgia's Board of Regents Foundation's 5th Annual Regents Awards for Excellence in Teaching Celebration recently. Dalton State College professor of psychology Christy Price received the 2008 Award for Excellence in Teaching. Price was one of only three faculty members system-wide to receive a Regents' Excellence in Teaching Award this year. Her award represents institutions within the access college sector, which includes the 16 system institutions that make up the college's two-year and four-year state colleges.

The proceeds from the evening gala fund President's Choice Scholarships at all 35 University System of Georgia institutions. Each institution receives up to $10,000 annually, and the presidents choose the recipient or recipients based on academic merit. This year, the USG Foundation has raised more than $1 million, resulting in 38 President's Choice and 12 Foundation Scholarships.

Raiders define success

Accountability. Sacrifice. Responsibility. These are a few of the words Southeast High's boys soccer team has taken on as part of coach Jamison Griffin's "Words of the Week" activity, where a given word is applied to experiences the Raiders encounter during the season.

Adam Krohn

The outside the box style the eighth-year coach uses is one he's firmly committed to, and the Raiders spend a good deal of time engaging in activities that have nothing to do with the game of soccer.

But of course, the Raiders also spend plenty of time working on soccer, a fact best demonstrated by a run to the GHSA Class 4A state championship game last season — the first title-game appearance in any sport in Southeast history.

"We're not just out here for Kumbaya," Griffin said. "We want a victory as much as anyone else. But there's a bigger purpose in teaching the life skills than the other ones, and they both complement each other."

"Something we learn from word of the week helps in soccer and vice versa. Their love for soccer can help them to be better people because they see how soccer provides better structure in their lives."

This week's word for the Raiders is humility.

The attribute could come in handy at 6 p.m. today in Carrollton, when Southeast faces the host Trojans in the Region 6-3A championship game.

The Trojans (13-1-2) are ranked No. 1 in the latest eurosport.com Class 3A coaches poll and finished first in 6-3A's sub-region "B." The No. 3-ranked Raiders (12-2-1) are the top-seeded team out of "A." Tonight's winner earns a No. 1 seed and, because of the spot granted to Region 6 in the Class 3A bracket, home-field advantage throughout the playoffs — a privilege the Raiders enjoyed last year.

As for humility, Griffin felt it was an appropriate word as the Raiders prepared for the post-season because they'll need to play in unison to make a deep run, especially with the graduation of key players from last year's team, including Victor Rodriguez, Jorge Gutierrez and Pedro Almazan.

"Humility is thinking of self less, not thinking less of self," Griffin said. "Think of others first. Also, we're talking about talent and appreciation. We need to appreciate the talent of other teammates and appreciate being part of program."

Eight of the team's 30 players are seniors and one of them, striker Fernando Villasenor, said activities like "Word of the Week" have helped the team grow as soccer players.

"Our word was accountability when we lost to LaFayette in our first region match," said Villasenor, who is expected to start tonight despite being limited in practice this week as he recovers from a groin strain.

"We played horrible and underestimated our opponent and were held accountable for that. Soccer is not just a physical game. You also have to be mentally prepared and, sometimes if we're not focused, the activities help."

MEN'S COLLEGE BASKETBALL: NCAA TOURNAMENT

Making their point

Clockwise from top left, North Carolina's Ty Lawson, Michigan State's Kalin Lucas, Villanova's Scottie Reynolds and UConn's A.J. Price have met the demands of playing point guard for an elite college basketball program, helping lead their teams to this weekend's Final Four in Detroit.

Guards lead way for Final Four teams

BY JIM O'CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT — It's the big men who draw the stares and cracks about the weather. It's the high-flying forwards and scoring guards who dominate the highlights.

And it's the point guards who almost always decide which team will win a national championship.

This Final Four is no exception. Ty Lawson of North Carolina and Kalin Lucas of Michigan State were their conference's player of the year. Lawson, A.J. Price of Connecticut and Scottie Reynolds of Villanova were the MVP of their regional.

All made their teams good enough to win 30 games, good enough to reach the Final Four.

"Point guard is obviously the most important position on the basketball court, everybody knows that," Price said without any trace of bragging. "A point guard does deserve a lot of credit when they lead their teams to a victory, and 30-some odd victories says a lot about a point guard. When things aren't going right, the point guard is who you have to look at as well."

Price is averaging 14.7 points and 4.8 assists this season. In the four tournament games, those numbers increase to 20.0 and 5.2.

Lucas, a sophomore and the youngest of the Final Four point guards, is averaging 14.6 points and 4.6 assists for the season. In the Spartans' four wins to get here, he averaged 12.8 points and 5.5 assists while committing nine turnovers, not bad for a player who specializes in driving inside to create opportunities for his teammates.

Former Georgetown coach John Thompson used to say the best point guards are the ones coaches share a brain with.

"You don't have to call him over, you don't need hand signals," the Hall of Fame coach said. "He knows what you need, not what you want, but what you need."

PREP TRACK AND FIELD: ROTARY INVITATIONAL PREVIEW

For area prep track and field coaches, the prestigious Rotary Invitational serves as a barometer for the progress of their teams as they prepare for region meets.

Dalton High will host the 35th Rotary Invitational on Saturday with approximately 500 athletes from 16 schools — 32 boys and girls teams — competing for team and individual titles. Besides the host Catamounts and Lady Cats, Rome, Northwest Whitfield, Gordon Central, Luella, Gilmer, Cass, McEachern, Campbell, Carrollton,

Braves squeeze out Grapefruit victory

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

KISSIMMEE, Fla. — Chipper Jones is showing off a million-dollar swing.

Jones, who's been bothered by an oblique muscle injury, went 2-for-2 Thursday as the Atlanta Braves posted a 2-1 win over a Houston team made up of Triple-A players.

Jones had homered in each of his previous two games since signing a three-year, $42 million contract extension Tuesday. "Whenever I'm healthy, the power swing is kind of streaky," he said. "I'll hit three or four in a week and then won't hit one for a couple weeks. I feel the (oblique injury) on my awkward swings, but it's not anything that I can't play through."

The Astros left town about an hour before the first pitch with their entire major league club, leaving players from the Round Rock Express to close out Grapefruit League play.

Jair Jurrjens turned in a good outing for the Braves, pitching four innings and giving up five hits and an unearned run.

"He pitched some great baseball all last year and ended up being our No. 1 starter," Atlanta manager Bobby Cox said. "We expect the same quality stuff that he has to give us a chance to win every time he toes the rubber."

Bud Norris, considered Houston's top pitching prospect, pitched four innings, giving up a run on five hits and striking out four.

■ NOTES: Braves C Brian McCann started behind the plate for the first time since he fouled a ball off his right knee Monday, leaving a bruise. ... Atlanta 2B Kelly Johnson hit his first home run of the spring, with it coming off Norris. ... Braves C David Ross has been slowed by a strained right groin since Tuesday. If he has to begin the season on the disabled list, then Clint Sammons could receive a roster spot as the backup catcher. ... Atlanta RP Rafael Soriano, who is still dealing with a strained side, made a relief appearance and allowed one hit and struck out one in an inning. He is expected to be ready for the start of the season.

Rotary: Rankings

Scott Thompson said. "And we don't have Redan and Marietta in this year's meet, but it's going to be a good meet."

"McEachern won the state championship in 2007 and was co-champion in 2008. We're going to have some great athletes that could make it a great meet."

The meet was canceled for the first time in its history last year by torrential rain, but the weather forecast for Saturday calls for sun, temperature in the 70s and winds at 5 to 15 mph.

After a 9 a.m. scratch meeting with coaches, the meet will begin with field events at 9:30 a.m. Running events, all of them finals, are scheduled to start at 11; the 4x400 meter relay is expected to wrap up the action at 3 p.m.

Three teams — McEachern's boys and girls and Parkview's boys — are ranked in the top 10 in the state and headline the field. Eight of the teams are in the top 25 of gatfxc.com's all-classification poll.

Gordon Central's Sara Talley, who has signed a track and field scholarship with Texas Christian University, has thrown the shot put 44 feet, 2 inches and the discus 139-11, which is the invitational record.

That 44-2 shot put would be a meet record as well. Alley Homer of Lovett currently holds the mark at 39-0.

"The Gordon Central girl is not beatable," Northwest girls coach Richard Taylor said.

McEachern freshman Amber Brock is ranked third nationally by USA Track and Field in the 200 meters (25.02 seconds) and 400 meters (55.07).

A couple of outstanding male athletes will come in from out of town as well. Parkview's Taron Squires has a 6-foot-8-inch high jump and MLK's Damar Forbes has a 23-0 long jump.

Both Marietta teams won titles in 2007, with Dalton's boys and Northwest's girls turning in solid performances. Marietta's Blue Devils, with Nike national champion sprinter Trey Charles winning three individual titles, piled up 110 points as they won their seventh invitational championship. Dalton was second with 95.5 points. The Lady Blue Devils won with 106 points while MLK was second with 103.5 and Northwest third with 63 points.

"We're still a work in progress," Thompson said of his Cats. "We lost 85 points off last year's team, but we've made major improvements. In our last meet, we turned in seven personal-best efforts. If we can keep having (personal bests) every time we run, that's all I'll ever ask for."

Taylor, whose Lady Bruins have won the past three Region 7-4A titles, looks forward to the Rotary Invitational each year.

"It's one of the best meets in North Georgia, without a doubt," he said. "The schools that compete here always bring great athletes and you expect really strong competition."

"It's a good chance to see where our girls are and what else we need to work on in the last few weeks for region."

Taylor was forced to cancel his team's Thursday practice due to heavy afternoon rain, but hopes the weekend weather holds up.

"Two of our biggest meets — South Paulding and Woodland invitationals — have already been canceled," Taylor said. "Those two meets would have given us a chance to see what the south part of the region has. That's a lost opportunity."

PREP TENNIS: REGION 7-4A TOURNAMENT

Three earn state berths, advance to semis today

FROM STAFF REPORTS

Dalton and Murray County's boys defeated South Paulding and Sprayberry, respectively, by 3-1 scores Thursday in the first round of the Region 7-4A tournament being played at the Calhoun Recreation Complex, and will collide today in the semifinals.

Each team secured a spot in the GHSA's Class 4A state tournament with the first-round victories.

Dalton's girls also advanced to the semifinals via a 3-1 win against Hiram and have a state tourney berth in their hip pocket as well.

Powerful Hillgrove, the No.1 seeds from the south sub-region, eliminated Northwest Whitfield's Bruins and Lady Bruins by 3-0 scores.

Dalton's Hunter Carson, playing No. 3 singles, rolled to a 6-0, 6-0 victory while No. 1 doubles Pryce Puryear and Andy Partain won 6-4, 6-2 and No. 2 Jeffrey Hair and Sam Batts eased to a 6-4, 7-6 (6) win.

"South Paulding was a good No. 4 team," said Dalton coach David Hilley, whose Cats are 10-2. "We beat Murray County during the season, but tomorrow's winner will get to play for a region title, so it's going to be a tough match."

The Cats and coach Kirk

Hemphill's Indians each finished 5-2 in sub-region play during the regular season. They'll play at 10:30 this morning.

"The win over Sprayberry took some pressure off all of us," Hemphill said. "I felt pressure to get this team to the state tournament and I'm coaching my last year and also coaching my son (Tanner). I've known these kids all their lives and I'm just thrilled that we got the win today. We're in the top four and we're in the state tournament. That's a big relief."

Garrick Sanford won 6-2, 6-2 at No. 1 singles for the Indians (10-1), while No. 1 doubles Beau Booth and Will Ross claimed a 6-2, 6-4 win and No. 2 Zach Davis and Andrew Miles won 6-0, 6-2. Tanner Hemphill won his first set 6-2, lost the second 5-7 and was even at 1 when the match was decided. At No. 3 singles, the Indians' Brandon Garcia lost 6-2, 6-2.

Dalton's Lady Cats, ranked No. 3 in the GaSports.com Class 4A coaches poll, got a 6-1, 6-4 singles win from No. 2 Audrey Puryear. No. 1 doubles Emily Broadrick and Malaka Awad won 6-1, 6-3 and No. 2 Sarah Kelehear and Clara Norfleet won 6-2, 6-0.

The Lady Cats (8-4) will play Sprayberry in the girls semifinals today, also at 10:30 a.m.

"I thought we played OK," Hilley said. "But we have to play a lot better against Sprayberry to win that match. Sprayberry is a much better team."

The Bruins were no match for potent Hillgrove, ranked No. 4 in 4A. Northwest's No. 1 singles player, Matt Bailey, lost 6-0, 6-2 and No. 2 Nathan Minor dropped a 6-2, 6-4 decision. Tyler Hungerpiller and Dillon Flood, the Bruins' No. 1 doubles team, lost 6-0, 6-1.

"That's the best team I've seen in a while," Bruins coach Billy White said.

"All I can is that they're probably going to win the tournament. Their girls and boys have some really good players and a bunch of them are seniors."

The Lady Bruins' Adrienne Orem suffered a 6-2, 6-0 loss at No. 1 singles, Kelsey Harmon lost at No. 2, 6-1, 6-2, and No. 3 singles Bernadette Valleriano was trailing 5-6 when the match was stopped by Hillgrove's third victory.

Northwest's No. 1 doubles Haley Dobson and Kelsey Rice lost 6-0, 6-1 and No. 2 Lindsey Denton and Ashley Miles dropped a 6-0, 6-3 decision, with both matches ending at the same time, Lady Bruins coach Charmin Kesler said.

"Hillgrove was a really good team," she added.

Nevada's John Fox, who led his team to a 21-13 record this year, is coming to Georgia.

Surprise: Bulldogs hire Fox

ATLANTA (AP) — In a surprise move, Georgia has hired Nevada's Mark Fox to replace Dennis Felton.

Georgia will announce the hire at a news conference this morning, a person with knowledge of the hire confirmed on Thursday night.

The person spoke on the condition of anonymity because the hire has not been officially announced.

The announcement is a surprise because Georgia athletic director Damon Evans left Athens on Thursday for the Final Four in Detroit, where he was expected to interview candidates.

Fox led Nevada to a 21-13 record this season. The hire comes after Georgia was unable to hire Mike Anderson, who instead agreed to a new deal at Missouri on Tuesday.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Rainy day pushes back area athletics

Heavy rain washed out much of the area's sports action on Thursday.

Dalton High's home baseball game against Sequoyah was postponed and a makeup date will likely be determined today, athletic director Ronnie McClurg said.

Murray County's home game against Woodland-Bartow was also washed out and rescheduled for April 15 at 5:55 p.m., coach Jason Lanham said.

Several middle school baseball games were postponed as well, and may not be played at all due to the wet ground, but that won't affect the start of the Whitfield County Middle School Athletic League baseball tournament.

That event's semifinals are scheduled for Saturday at Northwest Whitfield High. No. 2 seed North Whitfield plays No. 3 Valley Point at 10 a.m. and No. 1 New Hope takes on No. 4 Westside at 12:30 p.m. The championship is at 4:30 p.m. Monday, also at Northwest.

Penn State beats Baylor, wins NIT

NEW YORK — Penn State turned the NIT championship game into a party, and several thousand Nittany Lions fans sure seemed like the hosts.

Jamelle Cornley scored 18 points and the Nittany Lions used a big second half to beat Baylor 69-63 Thursday night and win the NIT title, just the second postseason tournament championship in school history. Super sophomore Talor Battle added 12 points, all in the second half, for the Nittany Lions (27-11), who were spurred on by raucous chants of "We are ... Penn State," led by none other than Joe Paterno, the 82-year-old football coach sitting about four rows behind the team's bench.

LaceDarius Dunn scored 18 points to lead Baylor (24-15), which hadn't won a postseason game since 1950.

MEN'S NCAA TOURNAMENT: FINAL FOUR CAPSULES

No. 2 MICHIGAN STATE (30-6) vs. No. 1 CONNECTICUT (31-4)

■ TV: CBS, 6:07 p.m. Saturday
 ■ COACHES: Tom Izzo (335-136 in 16th year at Michigan State) and Jim Calhoun (555-202 in 23rd year at UConn).
 ■ HOW THEY GOT HERE: UConn beat No. 16 Chattanooga, 103-47, in the first round, No. 9 Texas A&M, 92-66, in the second round, No. 5 Purdue, 72-60, in the regional semifinals and No. 3 Missouri, 82-75, in the regional finals. Michigan State beat No. 15 Robert Morris, 77-62, in the first round, No. 10 USC, 74-69, in the second round, No. 3 Kansas, 67-62, in the regional semifinals and No. 1 Louisville, 64-52, in the regional final.
 ■ SERIES HISTORY: Tied, 1-1.
 ■ LAST MEETING: Michigan State won, 85-66, in 2000.
 ■ STATS THAT MATTER: The Spartans are 22-0 when they outshoot their opponents from the floor including 9-0 mark when they shoot 50 pct. or better. In four NCAA wins so far, the Huskies are holding foes to 59.5 ppg on 36.5 pct. shooting.

■ MICHIGAN STATE STARTERS: G Kalin Lucas (14.8 ppg, 4.4 app), F Raymar Morgan (10.8 ppg, 5.7 rpg), C Goran Suton (9.8 ppg, 7.9 rpg, 84.8 FT pct.), F Delvon Roe (6.0 ppg, 5.4 rpg), G Travis Walton (5.0 ppg, 3.3 app).
 ■ CONNECTICUT STARTERS: F Jeff Adrien (13.6 ppg, 10.0 rpg), F Stanley Robinson (7.1 ppg, 5.4 rpg), C Hasheem Thabeet (13.7 ppg, 10.9 rpg, second in nation with 4.3 blocks, 64.9 FG pct.), G A.J. Price (14.0 ppg, 4.7 app, 40.3 pct. on 3-pointers), G Craig Austrie (7.2 ppg, 2.1 app).

■ OUTLOOK: Both the Spartans (led nation in rebounding margin, +9.4) and Huskies (third in reb. margin, +9.2) are tenacious under the boards, so winning that battle should be a key as neither can do much from beyond the arc — combined they make fewer than 10 3-pointers per game. Guards Lucas and Price are the only proven scorers, so whoever comes out on top in that battle will go a long way in deciding who plays for the title Monday night.

No. 3 VILLANOVA (30-7) vs. No. 1 NORTH CAROLINA (32-4)

■ TV: CBS, 8:47 p.m. Saturday
 ■ COACHES: Jay Wright (178-89 in 8th year at Villanova) and Roy Williams (174-37 in 6th year at UNC).
 ■ HOW THEY GOT HERE: Villanova beat No. 14 American, 80-67, in the first round, No. 6 UCLA, 89-69, in the second round, No. 2 Duke, 77-54, in the regional semifinals and No. 1 Pitt, 78-76, in the regional final. North Carolina beat No. 16 Radford, 101-58, in the first round, No. 8 LSU, 84-70, in the second round, No. 4 Gonzaga, 98-77, in the regional semifinals and No. 2 Oklahoma, 72-60, in the regional final.
 ■ SERIES HISTORY: North Carolina leads, 9-4.
 ■ LAST MEETING: North Carolina won, 67-66, in the 2005 NCAA regional semifinals.
 ■ STATS THAT MATTER: Wildcats' 15 NCAA wins over a higher-seeded team are four more than anyone else. After giving up 72.8 points per game during the regular season (275th in nation) on 41.3 pct. shooting, Tar Heels have given up 66.2 ppg on 39.8 pct. shooting in four NCAA wins.

■ VILLANOVA STARTERS: F-C Dante Cunningham (16.2 ppg, 7.4 rpg), F Dwayne Anderson (9.1 ppg, 6.0 rpg), G Scottie Reynolds (15.2 ppg, 3.3 app, game-winning basket with .9 of a second left vs. Pitt), F Shane Clark (5.6 ppg, 3.8 rpg), G Reggie Redding (6.9 ppg, 5.0 rpg).
 ■ NORTH CAROLINA STARTERS: F Tyler Hansbrough (20.9 ppg, 8.1 rpg), G Ty Lawson (16.3 ppg, 6.5 app, 48.5 pct. on 3-pointers), G Wayne Ellington (15.6 ppg, 4.8 rpg, 39.7 pct. on 3-pointers), G-F Danny Green (13.3 ppg, 4.8 rpg, 2.8 app), F Deon Thompson (10.7 ppg, 5.8 rpg).

■ OUTLOOK: How much will the Wildcats try to run with the Tar Heels (second in nation in scoring at 90 ppg)? If Nova can dictate pace, strong defenders Anderson and Clark will make life tough on Hansbrough (season-low with 8 points vs. Oklahoma). But if Lawson gets out on break to set up open looks for sharpshooters Ellington and Green, book UNC for first NCAA final trip since winning it all in 2005.

Point: Reynolds' shot clutch

In just two years, Lucas has a relationship like that with Michigan State coach Tom Izzo.

"Me and coach have been watching film, and one thing he wanted me to do more this year than last year was he wanted me to lead more, be more vocal on the court and create," Lucas said.

"I think that's something I'm doing better this year. I'm creating as a point guard."

All eyes were on him during the tournament as he recovered from a right big toe injury. He didn't play in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament because of it and missed the opening-round win over Radford.

He has looked like himself the past three games, averaging 20.3 points and 6.7 assists while turning the ball over just twice.

"In the tournament I've worked on taking care of the ball, not going too fast, slowing down to make better decisions, and that's why I've had only two turnovers in three games," he said.

Lawson, who is averaging 16.3 points and 6.5 assists for the season, has a good relationship with Reynolds as opponents in high school and AAU competition. The two were roommates at LeBron James' basketball camp two summers ago.

"Ty is a cool dude, he's very laid back," said Reynolds, who is averaging 15.2 points and 3.3 assists this season.

"We get along great. We have matched up against each other, we've played against each other and we have worked out with each other. I have good respect for what he has done this year, coming back from an injury and taking over that team and getting them to where he has taken them. I didn't expect anything less from him."

Reynolds is the reason Villanova is in the Final Four, scoring the winning basket with less than a second to play in the regional final against Pittsburgh.

It's that kind of play that thrills fans and players alike.

"I watch a lot of college basketball, but I definitely watch a lot of point guards because I can learn from them, and they're fun to watch," he said.

This weekend, he won't be the only one watching.

Pearl gets new deal

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee coach Bruce Pearl has a newly renegotiated six-year contract keeping him with the Volunteers.

It came hours after reports surfaced that Memphis wanted to talk to Pearl about replacing John Calipari, who left for Kentucky.

Interim president Jan Simek and athletic director Mike Hamilton announced Thursday night that they and Pearl had agreed in principle to the new deal. Details will be released within the next few days.

Pearl said in a statement that Hamilton has been supportive and committed to making Tennessee one of college basketball's best jobs.

"I want to ensure the University of Tennessee and its fans that I'm 100 percent committed to this school, this program and our student-athletes," Pearl said.

"I truly love my job, and I want it to be clear that I'm not interested in any other job. There's no place in the country I'd rather be than the University of Tennessee. My children are happy here in the Knoxville community. One is in high school, one is in middle school and two are currently attending the university."

Last year, Pearl was linked to openings at Indiana and other schools, but got a new six-year deal in July that paid him $1.6 million for the 2008-09 season with an average of $2.3 million a year.

COMMENTARY: PRO WRESTLING

McMahon remarks don't amuse Carter

Here are some of the latest news and notes from the world of professional wrestling:

• "Reprehensible."

That was WWE chairman Vince McMahon's summation of Total Nonstop Action's wrestling product, made to an entertainment magazine. It was a controversial and intriguing word to use coming from a man who has signed off on a laundry list of equally "reprehensible" storylines.

In McMahon's long career, he's presented: male on female violence, attacks on senior citizens, attempted murder, suicide, homicide, racism, kidnapping, home invasion, gang warfare, gun violence, necrophilia, drug addiction, binge drinking, marital infidelity, anti-U.S. views, offensive religious imagery, inappropriate language, made a mockery of marriage, degraded women, lingerie catfights, an 80-year-old woman giving birth to a hand and a live "sex show." And those examples are just off the top of my head.

Wonder if McMahon knows the meaning of "hypocrite"?

TNA president Dixie Carter was not amused with McMahon's assertion.

"I think it's wonderful that Vince watches TNA Impact," she told the UK Sun. "And I agree with him that things such as the brutal beating of a 60-year-old man, a vicious home invasion and gratuitous man-on-woman violence can be seen as reprehensible — and that's just the last three Monday nights."

• Tazz is out as a WWE commentator after letting his contract lapse. Reports indicate Tazz is frustrated with WWE management.

Strive; Torque topped Toy Dotson; Jake Murphy turned back Brian Rivers; Jake Murphy and Torque and Team Kill wrestled to a no contest.

Reds, Phils interested in Sheffield

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds wrapped up training camp with an overture to Gary Sheffield and a lingering question about the last opening in their starting rotation.

Manager Dusty Baker said Thursday that he's interested in adding Sheffield — a friend for many years — to the roster. The trouble is that he can't offer regular playing time to the 40-year-old free agent, who is hoping for a full-time job and a multiyear deal.

Baker got permission from general manager Walt Jocketty to call Sheffield and see if he would consider the Reds, who don't have a starting job open. Sheffield, who was released by the Detroit Tigers on Tuesday, could start in left field when the Reds are facing a left-handed pitcher and pinch-hit.

"I don't even know if we're in the running or not," Baker said. "He wants playing time."

How much could Baker give him? "I don't know," he said, adding, "I wasn't going to lie to him."

Sheffield also has been contacted by Philadelphia. Though Philadelphia's outfield is set, Sheffield could sign on for a reserve role with the Phillies.

Cutler traded to Bears

BY ARNIE STAPLETON

Associated Press Writer

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — Jay Cutler got his wish Thursday: a ticket out of Denver. And the Chicago Bears have a franchise quarterback for the first time in decades.

The Broncos announced Thursday they had agreed to trade their disgruntled Pro Bowl passer to the Bears, who've gone through a bevy of quarterbacks without much success ever since Jim McMahon was calling plays in the 1980s.

The Broncos will get quarterback Kyle Orton in return, along with two first-round draft picks and a third-rounder.

Humble beginnings

With yet another victory, Martinsville is a special place for Rick Hendrick

Jimmie Johnson winning at Martinsville Speedway, even with late-race drama, isn't anything new anymore. He got the best of Denny Hamlin in a late-race duel on Sunday in the Goody's Fast Pain Relief 500 to push his Martinsville win count to six, including five in the past six races.

It's become almost a given that if he doesn't win, his Hendrick Motorsports teammate Jeff Gordon will. Between the two of them, they've won 11 of the past 14 Sprint Cup races at the picturesque paper-clip-shaped track nestled in the south Virginia foothills. Team owner Rick Hendrick, a South Hill, Va., native, now has 18 career wins at Martinsville, second only to Petty Enterprises' 19. Those wins are among the most cherished of his 176 career Cup victories, because they came at the track where he often attended races as a child. He often tells of getting autographs through the fence back in the early 1960s from drivers like Rex White and Richard Petty.

Special memories

What made Hendrick's latest win so special was that it came on the 25th anniversary of his first Cup win, which came at Martinsville in 1984 when Geoffrey Bodine drove Hendrick's No. 5 Chevrolet to a victory over Ron Bouchard and Darrell Waltrip. At that time, the team was known as All-Star Racing, and ironically, Hendrick wasn't even there to celebrate in person. He got the big news through a payphone call to his mother.

"I had promised my wife that I would go to a church service with her and I did that that Sunday," he said. "I didn't know until we got out of church late that afternoon that we had won the race."

He said that victory in the Sovran Bank 500 may have been the most important of his NASCAR career. His idea for an all-star team seemed to be falling apart. Richard Petty, who Hendrick had hoped to be his driver, backed out before the first race. The sponsorship he'd hoped for didn't materialize. All he had was a determined and talented crew chief in Harry Hyde and a talented driver in Bodine, the Modified star from Chemung, N.Y.

"A couple weeks before, we were going to have to shut the team down because we had no sponsor," Hendrick said. "I told Harry we absolutely were going to quit two races before that. And we went on and won Martinsville and went on and picked up enough help to make it through the year."

"So if we had not won that race 25 years ago, Hendrick Motorsports probably would not be here today."

Simple start

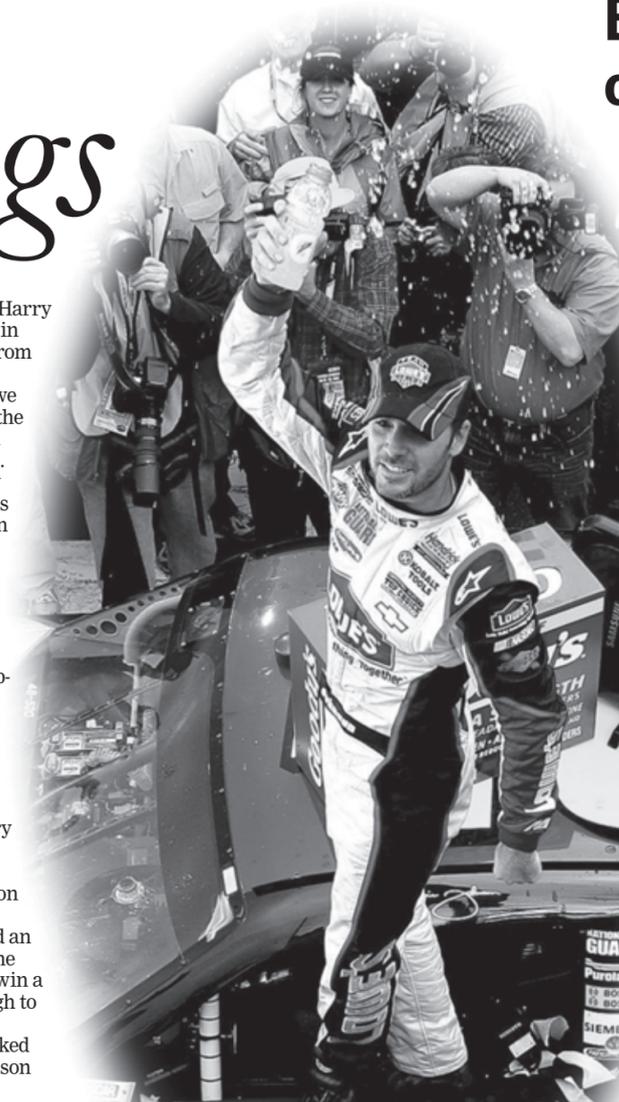

It seems hard to fathom now, given his success in racing, but Hendrick's entry into the sport didn't create much of a splash at first.

"No one paid any attention to me when I came in," he said. "Harry [Hyde] wanted an opportunity. He told me if he could build a car, he could win a race, and I was naive enough to believe him."

"I got to Daytona and looked out there with Junior Johnson and the Wood brothers and all of those guys, and I thought, 'Man, what am I doing here?'"

He did it at first with just five employees, renting rear ends and transmissions and putting Hyde's old Chrysler parts into his Chevys. But Hyde and Bodine were hungry to win, and that was the key to his initial success. But he said he doesn't believe it could be done today.

"You could not find a guy with Harry Hyde's talent sitting on the sidelines," he said. "You wouldn't find a guy like Geoff Bodine sitting there eager to drive a car, and you could probably not find a guy as dumb as I am to try to do it with no money."

Team owner Rick Hendrick marked the 25th anniversary of his first victory with Geoffrey Bodine (left) before the start of Sunday's race at Martinsville Speedway.

Biffle: Fords sink or swim together

The five drivers from Roush Fenway Racing ought to be glad they're headed to Texas Motor Speedway and putting the two-week stretch of short-track racing behind them. After being so good elsewhere earlier in the season, including Matt Kenseth's sweep of the first two races, they've struggled badly at Bristol and Martinsville.

At Bristol, Carl Edwards was the team's top performer, but he was just 15th. David Ragan was next in the 27th position, followed by Kenseth in the 33rd spot. Jamie McMurray finished 37th and Greg Biffle finished 39th with a blown engine.

At Martinsville, the best Roush Ford was McMurray's No. 26, which finished 10th. The rest were outside the top 20, with Kenseth 23rd, Edwards 26th, Ragan 27th and Biffle 28th.

McMurray said his car was good, but Biffle said he and Martinsville just don't mix.

"This track is just not my track," he said. "I've run as good as we can here, but it's tough for us."

He offered little enlightenment about his team's struggles the past two weeks other than to say they sink or swim together.

"When you say Fords, that's our whole team, and we're running all the same thing, so you don't have any variety," he said. "That's part of the issue, so when we're good, we're all good, and when we're bad, we're all bad."

G'day, mate: Aussie Ambrose runnin' strong

Marcos Ambrose turned some heads the past two weeks with his surprising runs on the two short ovals. Among those singing his praises was longtime promoter H.A. "Humpty" Wheeler, who was in Ambrose's garage stall over the weekend at Martinsville. Ambrose, a racing icon in his native Australia, finished 10th. The Australian driver backed up his top 10 at Bristol, despite late-race engine troubles and wound up with a solid 14th-place finish at Martinsville.

"If you had said that we would get away with two top-15s in my first two short tracks with a [Car of Tomorrow], I'll take it," he said. "We had old tires on there at the end, and we were able to stay on the lead lap all day."

He said much of the credit should go his crew, led by Frank Kerr, and to the folks at Michael Waltrip Racing who help prepare his No. 47 Toyota.

"They do a great job and give us great stuff every week," he said. "We're reliable, we're fast and it's just been a lot of fun."

Still, he's ready to move on to Texas Motor Speedway this week.

"I'm kind of over this short-track stuff," he said. "Let's go back to a normal speedway."

Gordon: Kyle Busch a threat, kind of like 'The Intimidator'

In a recent media session at Martinsville Speedway, Jeff Gordon was asked to compare Kyle Busch and the late Dale Earnhardt, a question that wouldn't have even come up just two short years ago, when Busch was mostly known for his wildness and for getting fired by Hendrick Motorsports.

"Please tell me you aren't trying to compare those two," Gordon responded. "There's no comparison."

Then he proceeded to offer a very enlightening comparison.

"I didn't race against Earnhardt when he was in his early twenties," Gordon said. "Maybe they would have been the same then. Kyle is just this incredible talent. He can put a car on the edge like nobody I've ever seen. The difference is that up until maybe this year, I really see him maturing so much over the last couple of years. But up until this year, he was a guy that would put it so far on the edge that he was making mistakes or would take it too far."

He said that was a far cry from the Earnhardt he knew. (Those who knew Earnhardt from his earlier days likely would disagree. Once as a youngster, he was given the opportunity to race at Charlotte Motor Speedway but totaled the car in practice when he drove into Turn Three and never cracked the throttle.)

"Earnhardt was rarely on the edge to be honest with you," Gordon said. "He was more of a bully. He's a guy that you never count him out. He was just tough as nails. He'd be a lap down and come back and be battling for the win at the end of the race and was just a totally different type of racer and how he approached it than Kyle."

But, Gordon said, as far as results, "They both really get the results."

He also said Busch, while still a little wild behind the wheel, is settling down some.

"When he first started, he was riding that bull in a china shop," Gordon said. "Now he's learned how to ride it in a rodeo arena and control it, and maybe back off just a little bit when he needs to and get it to the end and have the results."

And that's enough for Gordon to consider Busch a serious contender for the title, even though he bombed out in the Chase last year after winning eight "regular season" races and struggled at Martinsville, finishing 24th.

NASCAR

Kyle Busch (18) makes contact with Scott Speed Sunday at Martinsville Speedway. Jeff Gordon believes Busch is "more of a threat for the championship" this season.

"I'm way more nervous about Kyle this year than I ever have been," Gordon said. "I think he really needed to go through last year, his first year at [Joe Gibbs Racing], and learn some of the pitfalls and learn how to just continue to mature. I think this year, he could be way more of a threat for the championship when this season is all over."

Even though Kyle Busch has a way of making winning look easy, he also knows how hard it is.

"It's hard enough let alone to win a race in this sport with how competitive it is, with the way Jeff (Gordon) has been running every week, with the way Jimmie (Johnson) has been winning championships every year," he said. "It's not very easy."

Bidding quiz

You are South, and the bidding has gone:

North East South West
 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
 3 ♥ Pass ?

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

- ♠ 10 ♥ J8542 ♦ KQ632 ♣ 93
- ♠ 4 ♥ K98632 ♦ 7 ♣ KQ765
- ♠ 952 ♥ A975 ♦ Q83 ♣ 874
- ♠ A96 ♥ KQ743 ♦ 72 ♣ K92

1. Four hearts. The value of a hand rises or falls as the bidding progresses. Thus, when you initially responded one heart in this case, game chances looked rather poor.

But after partner raises to three hearts, the outlook changes dramatically. Your anemic hearts take on a brand-new value when partner jump-raises the suit, promising four-card support as well as 16 to 18 points, and the chances of making 10 — or even 11 — tricks become very, very good.

2. Four notrump. Here the number of tricks you can make depends primarily on how many aces partner has, and the Blackwood Convention is therefore invoked. If partner responds five hearts, showing two aces, you will quit then and there. If he bids five spades, showing three aces, you will carry on to six hearts. Point count is not an accurate criterion when you hold a highly distributional hand. Once partner guarantees four trumps by jumping to three hearts, the number of aces he shows in response to Blackwood will definitively indicate how many tricks can ultimately be made.

3. Pass. Partner's jump-raise is not forcing and merely invites you to go on. Passing should prove to be the winning action, since you have no values in either high cards or distribution beyond those previously guaranteed by your one-heart response. Had partner felt sure of 10 tricks after hearing your initial response, he would have bid four hearts, not three.

4. Three spades. Game is certain, of course, but you can't afford to ignore the possibility of a slam. Partner may have as little as:

♠ 43 ♥ AJ92 ♦ A8 ♣ AQ1064

— certainly not an enormous hand — but one which would make slam a virtual certainty. The spade cuebid — indicating first-round control of the suit and interest in slam — will help get you there.

Tomorrow: Reducing the luck element.

HOROSCOPE

Happy Birthday: You will take everyone, including yourself, by surprise this year. You will see things as black and white and, although this can have its negatives, it can also help you clear the dead weight from your life. This is a progressive year and it will lead to a better life and a better you. Your numbers are 6, 13, 17, 21, 27, 33, 40

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Don't give in to anyone giving you an ultimatum. Instead, continue in a positive direction. A professional deal is coming your way but, if you let an emotional issue affect your concentration, you won't be able to take advantage. 2 stars

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Don't go over budget with home renovation projects. Do much of the labor yourself and figure out ways to barter for the extras. Someone from your past may pose a problem. 4 stars

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Someone may try to convince you that you need his or her help but, before you take it, ask what you have to give in return. You must choose candidates that will form the best team. Your ability to pull things together will lead to success. 3 stars

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Ask yourself how much you are actually enjoying life and what you do each day. It's time to make some positive changes that will help you move in a better direction or that suits your personality better. 3 stars

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You need a little adventure in your life. If you can get away, even for just the day, do so. A change will spark your imagination and lead to a romantic encounter. Your emotional outlook is altered but now is not the time to make a final decision. 3 stars

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You can take charge but remember that whatever you do will influence your future. Let your practical side be the judge of what you share with others. If you keep things to yourself, you will have less explaining to do. 3 stars

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Expand your interests or get involved in something you enjoy doing and you will meet someone new who will influence your future. Don't rule out a professional partnership. Consider starting your own small business. 4 stars

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Don't give in to pressure or to anyone giving you an ultimatum. Take control and refuse to let anyone get a rise out of you that may show your emotional weakness. A short trip will be enlightening in terms of the information you collect. 2 stars

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't give in to criticism. Just because someone pulls out of a deal or decides not to go along with your plans doesn't mean you can't forge ahead. Opportunity will knock if you embrace change and people who can complement your style. 5 stars

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You'll have trouble controlling your emotions if you get into a feud with someone you deal with regularly. The less said, the better. Change may be necessary but it doesn't have to mean the loss of a friendship. 3 stars

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Gauge your response carefully and don't retaliate. Instead, operate under the pretense that everyone else will eventually see things your way. Move forward positively and everything will fall into place. 3 stars

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Present yourself with a challenge and you will have some fun. Your creativity and imagination will help you come up with some great plans. Progress will be yours as long as you aren't afraid to go it alone. 5 stars Birthday Baby: You think and react quickly. You are sensitive to your environment and unforgiving when it comes to opposition. You are true to your beliefs.

Phillips is Pinewood Derby Grand Champ

SUBMITTED BY THE NORTHWEST GEORGIA COUNCIL OF THE BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

The 2009 Pinewood Derby Grand Champion said "years of research and development" proved to be the secret weapon that put him over the top in the Conasauga District Pinewood Derby held March 14 at the First Presbyterian Church in Dalton.

Pack 2's Luke Phillips, 9, broke track and Bear division records when his car, "Silver Streak," turned in a track equivalent time of 215.2 miles per hour.

The District Pinewood Derby is open to the first and second place derby winners in the race and show categories from each pack of Cub Scouts with the Northwest Georgia Council. For the competition, racers place their cars on a specially-built downhill track where the cars are powered solely by gravity. Derby-sanctioned computer software allows results to be displayed immediately on a large video screen, in speeds equal to the miles-per-hour performances of real-world racers.

"We've gotten it pretty much down to a science," race chairman Randy Russell said.

Luke and his dad, David Phillips, concentrated their efforts on besting Luke's record from last year, when Luke finished first in his pack and third in the district.

"I did some parts," Luke said of the division of labor between him and his dad. "He'd get me started, and then I would do the rest. He used the power tools."

formance, Luke said, "It's a trade secret."

Founded in 1953, the Pinewood Derby is a celebrated springtime ritual for scouts, their fathers and family members. Show cars are judged on creativity, workmanship, appearance and, most of all, the effort put forth by the individual scout. Megan Joy: Likes bird, flies like one from 'Idol'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Megan Joy says she was just being goofy and showing her love of birds when she flapped her way across the "American Idol" stage.

Joy, who was eliminated from the TV show Wednesday, told a teleconference that fellow low-ranking contestants Anoop Desai and Allison Iraheta has promised to make bird-like "caw" sounds for her if she were voted off.

The tattooed, 23-year-old single mother from Sandy, Utah, said Thursday that she plans to add to her body art with an ink version of the good luck ring she wore for the singing contest.

Joy received the fewest number of viewer votes for her version of Bob Marley's "Turn Your Lights Down Low." Eight finalists remain in the competition.

DEAR ABBY

Dating causes woman's anxiety

DEAR ABBY: I am a 30-year-old, attractive, recently divorced attorney and single mother. My problem is I become extremely threatened when I'm romantically rejected, and I need to know how to gain a healthier approach to rejection.

I have dated occasionally, but nothing has developed into anything serious because I have yet to find someone with whom I feel completely compatible. However, when I start dating someone and he doesn't feel the same, it negatively affects my self-esteem. I feel and act depressed, and then I begin feeling insecure, anxious and irrational.

I recently drove someone away because when he didn't call me one night, I went wild with anger and anxiety. I realize this heightened response is not normal. It is also quite painful. Frankly, the intensity of my feelings frightened me, and I'm at a loss about how to handle it.

How can I get over feeling so insecure in relationships so rejection won't damage and disrupt my sense of self? — DISCOMBOBULATED IN BROOKLYN

DEAR DISCOMBOBULATED: May I remind you that the process of dating is like sifting for gold for everyone involved. It can take a lot of effort and sifting before you finally strike the mother lode. When it comes to dating, I know of few things that are more of a turn-off than a woman — or a man — who has the word "needy" stamped on her (or his) forehead.

If you felt good about yourself, you would not be so dependent upon these men for validation. Your intense, angry and anxious reactions when a man doesn't call may be related to your divorce — or they may stem from earlier insecurities you brought into your marriage. Unless you develop confidence about your self-worth, your relationships with men won't change.

Please give this some thought — and if you agree that I'm on the right track, consider consulting a psychologist who can help you develop some tools for emotional independence. Once you have achieved it, your odds of meeting "Mr. Right" will be much better.

DEAR ABBY: What is the proper way to defer right-of-way to an ambulance or other emergency vehicle? I drive on a two-lane highway to and from work every day, and have had a couple of close calls recently with drivers in front of me slamming on their brakes and stopping in the roadway while waiting for an emergency vehicle to go by.

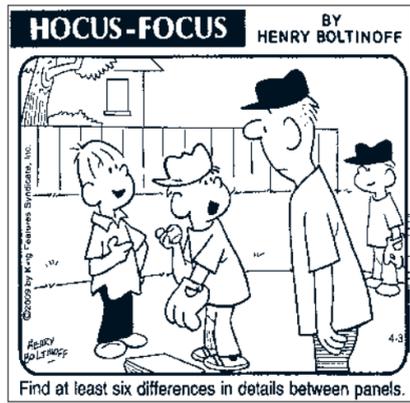

Please set me and my fellow commuters straight. In the meantime, I'll be ... SLAMMING ON THE BRAKES IN ALABAMA

DEAR SLAMMING: I was taught that when an emergency vehicle with a flashing light and a siren approaches from either direction that all drivers should move as far to the right as possible. This will allow the emergency vehicle access to the middle of the road, if necessary. Simply slamming on one's brakes is not enough. It can cause gridlock and bring the emergency vehicle to a stop, resulting in loss of property or even someone's life.

Vick hopeful of a return to football in September

BY LARRY O'DELL

Associated Press Writer
NEWPORT NEWS, Va. — An agent for suspended NFL star Michael Vick told a bankruptcy court on Thursday that he hopes the ex-Atlanta Falcons quarterback could return to the league by September.

Joel Segal testified as part of a hearing to assess Vick's plan to emerge from bankruptcy, which was designed with the goal of Vick returning to a professional football career. Vick, who left a federal prison in Kansas last week to travel to Virginia, was in court for the first time in the case. He is scheduled to testify Friday.

To return to a team, Vick still must apply to NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell to be reinstated. He hasn't yet done so, Segal said, and plans first to finish his 23-month sentence for bankrolling a dogfighting operation. He will return to his family and community, and when he is ready, start working with strength and quarterback coaches.

Segal said he'd try to negotiate a one- or two-year contract that includes incentives for playing time and a starting position. Segal said he hasn't spoken to teams because Vick is still under contract with the Falcons, though the team has said he won't play for Atlanta again.

"He'll let me know when he's ready for that, and when Mike's ready, we have a plan," Segal said.

Segal later told reporters Vick "misses the game a lot" and has stayed in good shape.

Attorneys wheel a load of boxes up to the U.S. Federal Courthouse on Thursday for a bankruptcy hearing for Atlanta quarterback Michael Vick.

Thursday detailed some of the ways Vick plans to spend his life once he is released from federal custody in July. He could be transferred to home confinement in late May.

"You will hear from Mr. Vick his future intentions, how he's going to change the way he lives his life," his lawyer, Michael Blumenthal, told U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Frank J. Santoro.

One of those changes will be a construction job, Blumenthal said. Vick has lined up a 40-hour-a-week, $10-an-hour job at one of W.M. Jordan Co.'s 40 commercial construction jobs, said John Robert Lawson, whose father helped start the Newport News company.

Lawson, 57, said in a telephone interview that he has known Vick for more than 10 years and that they have been involved in charitable work together. He said Vick's representatives approached him when the former hometown hero was turned away by other employers.

"I believe all of us make mistakes, and once you've fulfilled your commitment and paid the price, you should be given a second chance," Lawson said in a telephone interview. "He's not a bad person. He made some bad choices."

In court, Segal also testified that Vick has agreed to plans for a television documentary that will pay him $600,000.

Once one of the NFL's highest-paid players, Vick began to slide into financial ruin after details about the brutality of his dogfighting enterprise enraged the public. But court records show they were already in serious disarray because of lavish spending and poor investments.

Earlier this week, Vick and the Falcons agreed that he would pay back $6.5 million of his Atlanta contract, moving closer to cutting ties with a team that doesn't want him. Vick was suspended indefinitely after his 2007 indictment, and Goodell has said he will review Vick's status after he is released.

Young dog serves as alarm clock

Q: We got a Labrador puppy for Christmas. We've gone through puppy classes, and he's doing pretty well with most things. Now we're trying to be patient with things that are mostly "just puppy stuff."

One thing that's rough on us, though: He took the time change as an excuse to drive us out of bed not one but two hours early — or try to. Four a.m. isn't working for us. Help! — W.D., via e-mail

A: Your bright young dog has figured out that he gets fed as soon as he gets you out of bed.

Take away his reward for waking you. Do not make feeding him the first thing on his morning agenda — or yours. Instead, pick the paper off the porch, make yourself breakfast, take a shower, etc., and then, when your needs are met, address his. You need to break the connection in his head between your waking up and his getting fed.

Try not to react to his alarm-clock act. Don't get up, and don't yell. Just ignore him. You'll have a difficult time doing this at first, but he will finally come to understand which behaviors alter your actions and which don't. The ones that don't work, he'll drop.

Even though I haven't a clue as to how much exercise your dog gets currently, there's no such thing as enough activity for a dog, especially a young retriever. An evening aerobic session — fetch is ideal — will help him sleep more soundly. Tired dogs are good dogs.

Above all, be patient. Labs are often a big pain in the fanny until they grow up, which eventually happens between the age of 2 and 4. He's a big puppy now, but you'll start noticing a serious trend toward mellow after he gets through his adolescence.

About half of all cats aren't affected by catnip.

Q: I have three cats, but only one of them shows any reaction to catnip. That one cat gets so crazy I worry. Is he normal to be a catnip freak? Or are the ones who ignore catnip normal? Should I just make the one go "cold turkey" since the others don't care? Can catnip be dangerous? — P.E., via e-mail

A: Since our cats don't need to stay alert on the job, pay the bills, get the kids to school or operate heavy machinery, they can afford to be blissed-out on a regular basis. So if your cat likes catnip, indulge him to his little heart's content. For the good of the plants, though, put the pot where he can't get to them and offer him fresh clippings as often as you like. It won't hurt him.

As for your other cats not getting a buzz from the herb, that's perfectly normal, too. Not all cats like catnip: The ability to appreciate the herb is genetically programmed into some cats but not others. Kittens under the age of 3 months are also unaffected by the charm of catnip.

Up in the air

Since most pets travel in cargo holds, it's essential to prepare your pet for his trip and check on him while he's en route.

When pets fly, owners have to be their advocates

By GINA SPADAFORI
Universal Press Syndicate

Over the years, I've put many a pet on an airplane, most times unaccompanied. Some have been rescues going to new homes, some my own pets traveling for competition or training, and a couple of times my pets and I have just gone away for vacation together.

Every time I've put a pet in the air, I've chewed my nails down with worry until they reached their destination. And every time, there hasn't been a hitch or anything worse than a delayed flight.

While no one can guarantee a trouble-free trip, the vast majority of pets get where they're going in fine shape. But to make the odds of that happening even better, you need to be an advocate for your pets when they fly.

Animals move through the airline system as unaccompanied cargo or as travelers' baggage. Unaccompanied pets and most animals traveling as baggage travel in pressurized cargo holds, while some small pets are allowed into the cabin as a carry-on. Before your pet flies:

- Talk to the airline. The airlines that take pets — not all do — have limits on the number of animals on a flight, both in the cargo hold and (for small pets) in the passenger compartment. You also need to know where and when your pet has to be presented, and what papers — health certificate and so on — you'll need to bring.

Also be aware that some airlines won't ship pets in the warmer months at all (except as carry-on). Other weather-related restrictions apply as well.

Don't forget to ask about costs, so you won't be surprised. Struggling airlines have dramatically raised fees on many services, including shipping animals. Even pets who travel as carry-ons are subject to fees.

- Be sure your pet is in good health. Air travel isn't recommended for elderly or sick animals, and is likewise ill-advised for the short-nosed breeds of dogs and cats. These animals find breathing a little difficult under the best of circumstances, and the stress of airline travel may be more than they can handle.

For pets who'll be traveling in the cargo hold, use a hard-sided carrier designed for air travel, and make sure it's in good condition (no cracks in the plastic, no rust on the grating). The crate should be just big enough for your pet to stand up and turn around in. Check and double-check that all the bolts securing the halves of the carrier are in place and tightened.

Pets that are small enough to ride in the passenger cabin will be more comfortable in a soft-sided carrier.

Carry-on pets should have a collar and ID tag, but that's not safe for pets traveling below. Instead, put an ID tag on a piece of elastic around the pet's neck, and make sure contact information is written large and indelibly on the outside of the crate. Food and water dishes should be attached to the inside of the door grate and a supply of kibble duct-taped to the top of the carrier so airline personnel can offer it without opening the door.

- Consider travel conditions. Don't ship your pet when the air traffic is heaviest. Avoid peak travel days and times. Red-eye flights are often a good choice.

- Choose a direct flight. If that's not possible, choose a route with a single connection and a short layover. Most animal fatalities occur on the ground, when pets are left in their crates on the hot tarmac or in stifling cargo holds. Better yet: Choose a direct flight with an airline that has special handling available for pets, keeping them off the tarmac until just before flight time and transporting them to and from the plane in a climate-controlled van.

Ask about your pet en route, persistently but politely. Make your presence known! Confirm that your pet has been loaded and has made any connections en route. Get the direct line to cargo operations at any connecting airport and ask for visual confirmation from an airline staffer that your pet is OK. (Most of these people are very nice if you are!)

Contrary to popular belief, an untranquilized pet is safer. Still, your pet may be an exception. Talk to your veterinarian when you get your pet's health certificate.

The Air Transport Association, the trade group for the nation's airlines, offers information on its "Air Travel for Your Pet" section (www.airlines.org/customer-service/passengers). The ATA details the preparation of a pet for air travel, how to set up the carrier and how to check on your pet en route.

While no one can guarantee a trouble-free trip, the vast majority of pets get where they're going in fine shape.

Keeping veterinarians down on the farm

Veterinarians who work with large animals are becoming more rare.

- The boom in pet ownership is having ill effects down on the farm, as veterinarians are increasingly drawn to practices that care for dogs and cats. Only 10 percent of students entering U.S. veterinary schools pursue large-animal practice, says the American Veterinary Medical Association. Treating pets generally means better working conditions, shorter commutes and fewer on-call nights. Fewer large-animal veterinarians is seen as a concern not only for the animals who need care, but also for issues of public health, since veterinarians help to keep the food supply safer.

- As the temperature across the United States has gotten incrementally warmer because of climate change, more than half of 305 bird species in North America — a hodgepodge that includes robins, gulls, chickadees and owls — are spending the winter about 35 miles farther north than they did 40 years ago, an Audubon study finds.

- What animal are the Canary Islands named after? Surprisingly enough, it's the dog. Canaries, as in the singing bird, are named after the islands (where they are indigenous), not the other way around. The archipelago gets its name from the Latin for the largest of the islands, which the Romans named Insula Canaria (Isle of Dogs) after the large number of wild and domesticated dogs once found there.

THE SCOOP

Be wary of warming weather when exercising dog

While exercise is important for all dogs, it's important to plan activities during the cooler part of the day to prevent overheating.

Dogs who are overweight, out-of-condition, elderly or pug-nosed are especially at risk. For these dogs, heat stress can quickly turn lethal.

Don't take a chance with your dog's life. Keep exercise sessions short and plan them for early or late in the day. Stop at the first sign of overheating, such as heavy panting.

Always have cool water available both for drinking and for wetting down dogs on warm days. For the latter, concentrate on a constant flow of cool water — not ice cold and no ice packs — to the belly.

— Gina Spadafori

Heavy panting means an overheated dog — and short-nosed dogs are more at risk.

PET TIP

Snail bait can be a pet hazard

With gardening season at hand, it's important to come up with a safe strategy for eliminating snails. Many brands of snail bait are not just deadly to snails and slugs, but also to dogs, cats and birds.

Instead of laying out bait, look for snails at night with a flashlight, picking up pests and putting them in a bag that then goes in the garbage bin.

If you suspect your pet has gotten into snail bait — symptoms include frothing at the mouth, vomiting and convulsions — see your veterinarian immediately. Your pet's life depends on your prompt action.

The ASPCA's Animal Poison Control Center (www.aspcap.org/apcc) offers more information on hazards outside and inside the home. Prevention is key!
