Man sentenced for child exploitation

Tip from waitress led to arrest

Sherwood

By MARK MILLICAN
markmillican@daltoncitizen.com

A Florida man charged in August with aggravated child molestation after being reported to law enforcement by a Waffle House waitress has been sentenced on lesser charges in Whitfield County Superior Court to eight months in jail and 15 years on probation.

Lloyd Luis Burrell Sherwood, 66, of Williston, was indicted in December and sentenced after pleading guilty to two counts of sexual exploitation of children. Sherwood has two prior charges of sexual exploitation of children in Levy County, Fla., from August 2008, and two counts of lewd conduct with a child from 1994 in Orange County, Fla.

Sherwood is currently in the Whitfield County Jail. He will be transferred to Florida, said District Attorney Kermit McManus.

McManus said the prior charges, even though they were not convictions, would have been admissible had the case gone to a jury trial.

Sherwood was traveling from Florida to Michigan on Aug. 18 to go camping with two girls, ages 4 and 6, when he stopped at the Waffle House on Connector 3, according to Lt.

2 killed in wreck

FROM STAFF REPORTS

A Dalton man and woman were killed in a two-vehicle wreck on Tibbs Bridge Road Thursday afternoon. Whitfield 911 received the call at 3:18 p.m., a spokesman said.

Harley Long, 58, of 1908-C Crandall-Ellijay Road in Chatsworth was pronounced dead at Hamilton Medical Center at 4 p.m., said Whitfield County Coroner Bobbie Dixon.

Lethia Singleton, 78, of 4804-F Tibbs Bridge Road, died later Thursday evening, Dixon said.

Others involved in the wreck were airlifted to a Chattanooga hospital, a Georgia State Patrol spokeswoman said. Officials would not say how many were involved in the wreck or if the two who were killed were in separate vehicles.

The investigation is ongoing.

Jobless claims up 158%

Statewide, 96,306 laid-off workers filed first-time claims for state unemployment insurance benefits in March, an increase of 126.3 percent from March 2008.

The metropolitan areas with the highest percentage of increase in claims were Gainesville, up 249.4

Former Mohawk employee facing 57 criminal counts

By MARK MILLICAN
markmillican@daltoncitizen.com

CHATSWORTH — A Covington man is charged with 57 counts of theft by deception for allegedly setting up a recruiting company to hire employees for Mohawk Industries, then taking payments for recruits who were never hired or for those he didn't hire.

Damion Drexel Nimmons, 40, of 285 Bridge Way, was employed by Mohawk at the time and was in charge of authorizing payments to companies that recruited employees, said District Attorney Kermit McManus. Nimmons is scheduled for arraignment on May 6. Nimmons was arrested in Covington on March 21 through a Murray County Superior Court warrant. He was charged by the sheriff's office and bonded out of jail on April 2 on a $100,000 bond.

"He set up a company called Echelon Network," said

McManus. "Echelon was hired by Mohawk at the behest of Nimmons, not knowing that he was the president of Echelon. He submitted invoices to Mohawk from Echelon — at $1,600 per recruit — and authorized payments for people who never worked, or took credit for employees who came to work but were referred by relatives or someone else."

Dalton attorney Jim Toland represents Nimmons. He said at this point it's "all sketchy until I see more of the evidence." He called the situation between Nimmons and Mohawk an "arm's-length transaction."

"It was an outside company that was doing recruiting/interviewing of potential candidates for jobs at one of Mohawk's divisions," he said. "My client worked at Mohawk but had an interest in a business prior to Mohawk. They knew what he did before he came to work for them, but (Mohawk) produced a conflict of interest document after the recruiting was done and asked him to sign it. That's what I've seen and that's what I understand."

"Until I've seen more I don't know if it's criminally actionable or civilly actionable."

Nimmons was dismissed by Mohawk in November 2007, McManus said. He said there are a lot of reasons the case is just now coming to the fore.

"It took awhile for (Mohawk) to really realize what was going on," he said. "It started adding up for them in November of 2007 that something wasn't right. They did their own internal investigation

"If I go into stores and the clerks say 'hon' or 'babe' or 'sugar' I don't like that. Is that age discrimination? It's a pet peeve of mine."

"Why would someone say President Obama doesn't have the education to be president. He's a Harvard Law graduate."

"To all you people complaining about helping the homeless, God didn't appoint you investigator of the homeless. He said for you to love your brothers and neighbors and help those in need. Period!"

Editor: Is it not reasonable to determine if someone is truly in need?

"How many Whitfield County citizens get to use the library. It takes $20 worth of gas just to get down there. That's a waste of money for the county because we get no benefit from it."

Editor: $20? What do you drive, an Abrams tank? Most county residents come to Dalton regularly on other business. Many stop by the library while in town.

"I went under the traffic light cameras hundreds of times in the last two years and never got a ticket. All you had to do was not run the red light."

"People who come in a restaurant and walk out on a check, karma will get you in the end."

"I am sick of the 'green' and global warming nonsense."

"Now that the traffic lights cameras are coming down, the city of Dalton should send refund the money to everybody who got a ticket."

"Explain to me why they are building new schools when they are cutting back on teachers and substitutes."

Music video going online

LOS ANGELES (AP) — YouTube and Universal Music Group are teaming up on an online music video venture that will launch later this year with Universal's entire catalog of nearly 10,000 music videos. The companies will share ad revenue on the Vevo.com site, on a Vevo channel on YouTube and on a tailor-made video player that can be placed on social-networking pages and other sites. The free-to-view package will carry ads, including video spots of up to 15 seconds preceding the music video.

"We believe that video is the best opportunity for revenue generation right now," said Rio Carraeff, executive vice president of Universal's eLabs digital business strategy unit.

As an added incentive to Universal, the player will feature a button enabling users to easily buy the tunes digitally through Apple Inc.'s iTunes and Amazon.com Inc., which send most of the revenue from music sales to the labels. For now, videos will not be for sale.

percent; Rome, up 218.4 percent; and Brunswick, up 185 percent. The areas with the smallest increase in claims were Valdosta, up 44.6 percent; Hinesville, up 70.4 percent; and Albany, up 85.2 percent.

Most of the state initial claims were filed by laid-off workers in manufacturing, trade, construction, and administrative and support services, the Department of Labor said. The number of jobless workers receiving unemployment insurance benefits rose 133 percent over the year, from 74,294 in March of 2008 to 172,947 in March of 2009.

State Labor Commissioner Michael Thurmond urged job seekers to continue to look for work, explore training and education opportunities, and to make full use of the re-employment services at the department's 53 career centers around the state. The Dalton career center, which serves Whitfield and Murray counties, is at 1406 Chattanooga Ave. The phone number is (706) 272-2301.

Trade center upgrades sought

By CHARLES OLIVER
charlesoliver@daltonciti-zen.com

Though it was built more than 20 years ago, the Northwest Georgia Trade and Convention Center is still in very good shape, say trade center officials. But it may require a few tweaks to bring it into the 21st century, they add.

Global Spectrum took over the management of the trade center on Jan. 1. The company has completed a total inventory of the building and equipment. It has also been working with members of the trade center authority board to develop a long-range plan for the building. Company officials could present some of those ideas to the authority board when it meets later this month.

"We are evaluating the needs of the building, and we have put together a 15-year capital plan for the building that we believe can take the trade center to the next level and help us bring more revenue to the community and to the building," said trade center executive director Shashank Gairola. "We've taken a look at everything from food and beverage and the kitchen to the doorsteps on every door to the roof to the painting of the building to technology."

Gairola says short-term plans focus on the kitchen and technology.

"We are evaluating the kitchen plan and trying to make sure that we aren't asking the city and the county and the board for something that doesn't make sense, something that we can't show a return on the investment," Gairola said.

Trade center board members say that many of the changes that have been mentioned by Global Spectrum are ones they have independently been talking about for several years.

MATT HAMILTON/The Daily Citizen

Shashank Gairola, executive director of the Northwest Georgia Trade and Convention Center, sits in one of the ballrooms at the trade center. He

"The kitchen and some other items have been put on hold while we tried to see what was going to happen as far as the possibility of getting an attached hotel," said trade center board chairman Harvey Neal.

The trade center was originally designed to have a hotel attached to it, and the main kitchen was originally supposed to be in that hotel that was never built, say trade center officials. The current kitchen, they say, isn't large enough to fully handle all the business the trade center does.

But Gairola says they believe that with some creative use of space they can expand the kitchen.

Gairola says the short-term capital requests will likely cost a few hundred thousand dollars.

"We think we've shown adequate justification in regards to how we can show a return on investment within the year," he said.

Neal says the trade center can handle some of the renovations from its own budget, but it will likely have to ask for some funding from the city of Dalton and Whitfield County.

Will the city and county ante up?

"We have to make the case, and let the policymakers decide," said Charlie Bethel, who is a member of both the City Council and the trade center board.

"In any business, you have to be wise with your capital assets in downtimes.

says short-term plans for the trade center focus on the kitchen and technology, and a 15-year capital plan is in the works.

You have to ask what are your prospects with and without the investment. If you are going to be able to recoup it, then that is certainly something you have to look at," Bethel said.

Global Spectrum has already made a number of changes at the trade center, adding a marketing director and finance director as well as new training for employees and creating a new marketing plan including a new Web site design at www.daltontradecenter.com.

"One of the complaints we've heard is that people may not even know about events we are having, so we are using a lot of new avenues to reach them — MySpace, Facebook, LinkedIn, as well as getting the word out on our Web site," Gairola said.

Neal said he thinks they are already "starting to see some positive results" from the new marketing efforts.

But the changes haven't been felt on the trade center's bottom line, and officials warn it will take some time before all these changes create the sort of new business they hope for.

"We can make an advance, but like with everyone else, I think our ceiling is certainly limited by current economic conditions. We can improve in a down economy over what we have been doing, but to really take advantage of the facility to its fullest, it will help to have a high level of business activity in general," said Bethel.

Hurricane forecaster predicts average season

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The 2009 hurricane season will be less active than last year's flurry of storms, and there's less than a 50 percent chance that a hurricane will hit the southeastern U.S., a researcher said Thursday.

On the Gulf Coast, however, there is a 70 percent chance a hurricane will make landfall.

The N.C. State University team's forecast of 11-14 named storms for the Atlantic season, including six to eight hurricanes, was generally in line with predictions from Colorado State University researchers. They called for an average season with 12 named storms, including six hurricanes — two of them major.

Last year was one of the most active hurricane seasons on record, with 16 named storms, including eight hurricanes, forming in the Atlantic. Five of the eight hurricanes were at least Category 3 strength.

The forecast from the N.C. State team led by Professor Lian Xie said there was a 45 percent chance a hurricane would hit the southeast coast and a 40 percent chance a major hurricane would hit the Gulf Coast.

"We anticipate the overall activity of the 2009 Atlantic hurricane season to be close to that of an average season seen in the past 20 years," said Xie, whose team evaluated 100 years of hurricane positions and intensities along with weather patterns and sea surface temperatures.

Last year's forecast was for a slightly more active season than average with 13 to 15 named storms, he said.

"I would also like to emphasize that long-range hurricane predictions, although they have shown some skill in the past, are still not a precise science," he said.

VIEWPOINTS

Obama to push on immigration

Adding to an already ambitious first-year legislative agenda, President Obama is going to push ahead with immigration reform, hoping to succeed where President George W. Bush failed.

According to The New York Times, he will launch the effort with a speech in May, seek input from immigration groups, convene working groups of lawmakers from both parties over the summer and have a bill ready for Congress in the fall.

The measure will certainly include the key points of his campaign platform on immigration, which were markedly similar to the views of both Bush and Republican presidential candidate John McCain. Indeed, McCain would make a good ally in that much-talked-about-but-little-practiced new spirit of bipartisanship.

Obama has promised to secure the borders with more agents and better technology, and to reduce the incentive to sneak across the border by reforming the "dysfunctional" immigration bureaucracy that forces would-be legal entrants to wait years to enter the United States.

The most controversial provision is likely the path to citizenship, allowing illegal immigrants to "come out of the shadows" by paying a fine, learning English and going to the back of the line for citizenship. He promised to crack down on employers who use illegal immigrants, but he also said during the campaign that workplace raids were ineffective.

Obama would also increase legal immigration to keep families together and to fill jobs that the American work force isn't willing to. At the same time, he should make it easier for skilled foreign scientists and engineers with H-1B visas and foreign students at U.S. universities who have desirable skills to gain residency.

Politically, this is perhaps not the most opportune time to tackle immigration. Some lawmakers may be disinclined to act on the grounds that the recession will induce many illegal immigrants to go home, although there is no great evidence of that happening. And many opponents will charge that we should not be legalizing foreign workers when so many American workers are looking for jobs.

Bush's experience, when the economy was good and his party controlled both houses of Congress, shows that there is no really right time. But the only excuse for not acting on immigration reform is if Congress and the country find the status quo — 12 million illegal immigrants — acceptable.

Disastrous nominee

If you need a shining example of the utter disingenuousness of Barack Obama's commitment to government transparency, I have two words for you: Ron Sims. This lifelong political hack is to transparency what sunlight is to Dracula, what salt is to a slug, what kryptonite is to Superman, what "The View" is to intelligent debate.

That is: lethal.

In its press release announcing the nomination of the Seattle-area county executive to the No. 2 post at the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the White House described Sims as a "visionary urban leader." The White House also touted Sims' "willingness to make the tough choices necessary to ensure that American tax dollars are spent wisely."

But Sims' key accomplishments in the Pacific Northwest have involved illegally keeping taxpayers in the dark. Despite his long-known notoriety in Washington State as an incompetent manager and obstinate campaign finance law-breaker, President Obama trusts Sims to oversee the day-to-day operations of a federal agency with 8,500 employees, a $39 billion yearly budget, and a chronic history of corruption and cronyism.

A Senate Banking Committee staffer told me this week that Sims' confirmation hearing will likely be scheduled soon after the Easter recess. Let's hope someone on the committee is talking to the folks who have fought the real Sims in his own backyard.

Ask Stefan Sharkansky. A Seattle blogger and citizen activist, Sharkansky blew the whistle on election fraud shenanigans involving Sims' office during the November 2004 gubernatorial election. He has fought since December 2004 to obtain public records related to gross errors in the county's ballot counting. Since

Michelle Malkin

(a) that county officials unlawfully counted hundreds of ineligible ballots in the 2004 election (a multiple of the 133 vote "margin of victory" in the governor's race); and (b) that they unlawfully withheld documentation of the illegal vote counting from public disclosure for many months (up to a few years) after the documents were first requested."

"What we've seen is not just a lazy agency dragging its heels to respond to document requests, but an organized effort to cover up official misconduct and to obstruct justice," Sharkansky stated in his suit. His case goes to trial next week.

This alleged defiance of open-records laws fits a disgraceful pattern in Sims' office. Ask Armen Yousoufian. In 1997, the former Boeing engineer embarked on what would be a 12-year legal battle to force Sims to obey public-disclosure rules. Instead of making the "tough choices necessary to ensure that American tax dollars are spent wisely," Sims did everything in his power to ensure that King County, Wash., taxpayers were deprived of vital information on how their money was being spent.

Yousoufian wanted access to government documents related to a sports stadium subsidy plan up for a vote in Washington in the summer of 1997. The records he requested at the end of May 1997 pertained to the fiscal impact of a massive tax-hike proposal to build a new football palace for the Seattle Seahawks. Time was of the essence: County residents were preparing to vote on a ballot initiative package worth $300 million on June 17, 1997. Boosters of similar "public-private stadium partnerships" had made dubious claims of economic windfalls that never transpired.

Sims, a leading stadium subsidy booster and corporate water-carrier for Microsoft billionaire and Seahawks owner Paul Allen, didn't put an informed citizenry first. His office deliberately stonewalled Yousoufian's request — at first failing to deliver the documents, then claiming they didn't exist, and then admonishing him to bug off because he had been given everything he requested. All lies. While Sims' deputies gave Yousoufian the grand runaround, Referendum 48 passed by a margin of 51-49.

Yousoufian launched a one-man crusade to hold Sims accountable to taxpayers. In 2000, he sued under Washington's open-records law. A lower court ruled in his favor. The courts found "hundreds" of instances where Sims' office deceived Yousoufian or refused to tell the truth. To deter future abuse, Yousoufian appealed for higher fines.

In January 2009, just weeks before Obama would tap Sims for the No. 2 HUD post, the high court issued a historic ruling in Yousoufian's favor, damning Sims' "blatant violations of the state Public Records Act."

Obama's best and brightest: working hard to keep taxpayers in the dark. Long live transparency!

Aren't women already ruling the world

I heard that former Clinton White House press secretary Dee Dee Myers was coming to Atlanta to keynote a conference with an eye-glazing title: "Possible Woman Conference: Power, Promise and Possibilities," to take place April 21 at the Georgia World Congress Center.

The proposed subject of her talk intrigued me: "Why Women Should Rule the World." Dumb me. I thought women already did.

For most of my adult life I have taken directives from the Woman Who Shares My Name, my daughter and my daughter-in-law. If that was not intimidating enough, I now have a granddaughter-in-law who has joined the junta.

I have heard from readers suggesting that I run for governor and straighten out that crowd under the Gold Dome. One person even wrote that I should "take over state government." That is very flattering, but the truth is that if I am not in charge of my own house, how can I be in charge of government? ("Your Eminence, You-Know-Who just called and said to eat your broccoli and turn down the sound on the television. You always play the TV so loud, people in the next county can hear it.") Who wants a leader who needs to be told things like that?

In a telephone call to Dee Dee Myers at her home base in Washington, I told her she was a little late on that "ruling the world" stuff at the Yarbrough household. She laughed and said she really is not advocating an overthrow of us guys. She just wants us to share the territory a little more.

Dick Yarbrough

"Although," she quips, "after what you men did to the economy, maybe we should take over." Ouch! Myers, who was the first woman — and the youngest person — to hold the job of White House press secretary, believes that women bring unique strengths to the workplace.

Unlike men — who over the eons developed a kill-or-be-killed mentality in which the guy with the biggest club and fastest reflexes usually won — women, Myers says, developed a totally different set of skills: reading non-verbal cues, carefully assessing their environment and seeking peaceful ways of resolving issues. Not only did their lives depend on their success, but so did the lives of their offspring.

"These are skill sets," she says, "that serve women well today." Myers says women are making progress in reaching their potential, but "we still have far to go." She points to medicine and science as two fields where women are currently excelling, based on those things she says women do best: listening, analyzing and empathizing. Another advantage, she says, is that women tend to look at problems differently than men and seek new ideas, rather than embrace the old way of doing things.

Myers believes one of the issues that women need to confront is not the attitude of their male counterparts but those of other women.

"Frankly," she asserts, "women tend to be too judgmental of each other." Myers says some women in the workforce look down on those who choose to stay home as being stereotypes of another era. Many stay-at-home women think those who are focused on climbing the ladder of success minimize the importance of family. It does not have to be an either-or situation, she says. Women should be able to do both.

Myers is a good example. She is a wife and the mother of two, who gives her daughter's soccer practice the same energy and effort that she does women's issues. Besides, she says, raising children requires many of the same skills needed in the workplace. Having worked with some very infantile people in my time, I would agree.

I'm glad I called her, and I'm glad I found out she doesn't want women to take over the world but to be appreciated for the variety of talents they bring to the workplace. However, after talking to Dee Dee Myers, I would be happy to have her in charge. She is sharper than a carving knife and would certainly do a better job of running things than that nutcase in Iran or the fat toad in North Korea. Maybe I could even convince her to ban broccoli.

MURRAY COUNTY SCHOOLS

System spending on consortium expected to end

BY RACHEL BROWN

rachelbrown@daltoncitizen.com

CHATSWORTH — Murray County Schools officials haven't pulled out of an eight-year lawsuit that argues they are among the Georgia school systems the state underfunds, but they say there isn't money in next year's budget to continue paid membership.

Director of administrative services Dean Donehoo said the Georgia School Funding Association, formerly the Consortium for Adequate School Funding, has waived almost $12,000 — the second installment of a roughly $23,624 dues payment — allowing the system to put off its decision to continue financially supporting the group at least until payment is due again in July.

"The Consortium has already redrafted the lawsuit and they are planning to refile," Donehoo said.

Board member Josh Young said he's "somewhat disappointed" in the turn of events, but added officials must weigh the association against other needs if it comes to a vote.

"There is no way to justify spending money on this when we are faced with the possibility of cutting positions in our system," Young said. "... Not every school system that is financially deprived by the state is involved in the lawsuit. They choose to involve themselves or not."

Because of a combination of rising costs, state funding cuts and an expected decrease in local revenue, school officials say they need to cut $6.8 million from the budget that begins July 1. The current budget is $60 million, and the upcoming budget hasn't been set.

Joseph G. Martin Jr., executive director of the association, said Murray County's second installment was waived because of the system's financial situation.

"They have been a pillar in everything we've done," Martin said, "but the state cuts have hit them even harder than other systems around the state."

Murray County has a smaller tax base than most other Georgia school systems, so state funding cuts hit the rural school system twice as hard as they do elsewhere, he said.

The school system has paid about $150,000 since 2004 when it joined the Consortium, which started in 2001.

Martin said the organization is seeking outside public interest groups to contribute financial support. After a February opinion by state attorney general Thurbert Baker that local school systems can't form a nonprofit agency to spend tax dollars to sue the state, the structure is being changed to consist primarily of individual membership rather than school board memberships, he said. Martin said the association disputes the attorney general's opinion, but is restructuring to remove any barriers.

Donehoo said he believes there will be some individuals interested in joining the reorganized group.

"I think this would be a very good thing to have this looked at," he said. "I still stand behind what the Consortium is doing."

Martin said supporting school systems will be asked to pay $1 for each student after July 1. The current rate is $6 per student. Rates for individuals are still being set, he said.

Actor Wes Studi, right, takes a break while shooting a PBS documentary at the Vann House in Spring Place in May, 2008. Studi starred in several films including "Dances with Wolves," "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee" and "Geronimo," but is best known for his role in "The Last of the Mohicans." The new documentary featuring area sites will air April 27 on Georgia Public Broadcasting.

'Trail of Tears' to air April 27

FROM THE CALHOUN TIMES

On April 27, Georgia Public Broadcasting will air "Trail of Tears," the third episode in a groundbreaking five-part series called "We Shall Remain."

The series chronicles the histories of several American Indian tribes. The April 27 episode tells the story of the Cherokee and the tragic events of the Trail of Tears. Much of the action was filmed in Gordon County, which was the site of New Echota, the capital of the Cherokee Nation, said David Gomez, chief ranger at the New Echota Historic Site.

The production company filmed for four days at New Echota and then returned to shoot some final material, Gomez said. "New Echota was the location for a number of scenes that actually occurred here and was also used for some scenes that occurred elsewhere," he said. "For instance, the death of Major Ridge, which actually happened in Arkansas, was filmed at the Samuel Worcester house here."

Gordon County viewers who are familiar with the New Echota site will recognize several of the historic buildings. "The Print Shop really stands out," Gomez said.

Gomez saw a private screening of the show and said it's a must-see for Gordon County residents.

"This film tells the story from the Native American perspective," he said. "The series title, 'We Shall Remain,' is very true. The Cherokee heritage is still very much with us in Gordon County and throughout Northwest Georgia. I think people in Gordon County will get a kick out of it."

Other, smaller film crews have used New Echota as a location, but Gomez said the PBS documentary is a "fairly big production."

"It was good to see the finished product," Gomez said. "When you watch the filming and then see the final version, it makes you realize how much work goes into making one scene that might be 30 seconds on the screen."

The 90-minute film also highlights Cherokee history in several surrounding counties.

"It features Major Ridge and his son John Ridge who lived here in Rome as well as Chief John Ross and Elias Boudinot," said Debby Brown, programs director at Chieftains Museum in Rome. "It is the most fair and unbiased look at the events leading up to the Trail of Tears I have ever seen."

Brown said many people are quick to label Ridge as a traitor to the Cherokee people when the circumstances surrounding the Trail of Tears are not as simple as some would make it out to be.

"That's why this is such an important show," Brown said. "It doesn't make Major Ridge to be a villain and it certainly doesn't make him out to be a hero. It details a very tragic story in a way that will make (Northwest Georgia) residents take notice of how much of an impact people from this area had on our history."

Portions of the episode were filmed at the Vann House in Chatsworth, as well as New Echota.

The New Echota State Historic Site is located at 1211 Chatsworth Highway north of Calhoun. The site is open Tuesday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday, 2 to 5:30 p.m.

Hammer time for cell phone used to run up $5,000 bill

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — A cell phone used by a Wyoming 13-year-old to run up a nearly $5,000 phone bill will text no more thanks to her angry father and his hammer.

Dena Christoffersen of Cheyenne sent or received about 20,000 text messages over about a month, and her parents' phone plan didn't cover texting.

Gregg Christoffersen told KUSA-TV of Denver this week that he thought texting had been disabled on her daughter's phone, which he smashed hours after getting a phone bill for more than $4,750.

The family says Verizon has been willing to knock the bill down to a reasonable level.

Dena has been grounded until the end of school. She says she feels bad and has learned her lesson.

Sherwood: Sex offender

Nancy Chadwick with the Whitfield County Sheriff's Office. Sherwood took one of the girls into a restroom and stayed for around 15 minutes, raising the suspicions of waitress Karen Griggs.

After Sherwood came out and ordered food, he took the other girl into the restroom. The girls were wearing miniskirts and told Griggs they were going camping. Griggs went outside to look at the car and saw no camping equipment, then called authorities. Sherwood was arrested and the girls were put in the care of the Department of Family and Children Services.

"He is a friend of the girls' family and he had them with the consent of the parents," Chadwick said in August.

"The first count is possessing a digital camera of child porn of one of the girls," McManus explained. "The second count is knowingly bringing that camera with the photographs into the state."

McManus said Sherwood must register as a sex offender and abide by those restrictions.

"I want to emphasize that these are the only charges to come out of the investigation — the photos of partial states of nudity," McManus added.

"No other action occurred in Whitfield County."

Public defender Mike McCarthy represented Sherwood.

"I think if the state felt they could prove the molestation charges they would have carried through on that," he said.

McCarthy said "ordinarily" a defendant has 30 days after a guilty plea to file an appeal if it's in the same term of court.

"I haven't heard anything from (Sherwood) directly or indirectly," he said in that regard. "I do know that he's requested to have his probation transferred to Florida since he has no community ties here."

Theft: A $100,800 loss and called in the GBI (Georgia Bureau of Investigation). Once the GBI got involved they interviewed all the people who Echelon referred, and they contacted me about 10 months ago. I got the file in September and we evaluated which way to go with it."

McManus said the GBI told him the transactions were a $100,800 loss to Mohawk.

A phone number for Nimmons or the Echelon company could not be found. A call to Mohawk's legal department was not immediately returned on Thursday.

Warship watches Somali pirates

NAIROBI, Kenya — Somali pirates and their hostage American sea captain were adrift in a lifeboat Thursday off the Horn of Africa, shadowed by a U.S. destroyer with more warships on the way in a U.S. show of force. The U.S. brought in FBI hostage negotiators to work with the military in trying to secure the release of Capt. Richard Phillips of Underhill, Vt. An official said the bandits were in talks with the Navy about resolving the standoff peacefully. As the high-seas drama stretched into a second day, the freighter that was the target of the pirates steamed away from the lifeboat under armed U.S. Navy guard, with all of its crew safe — except for the captive captain.

Obama to seek $83.4B for wars

WASHINGTON — President Barack Obama is seeking $83.4 billion for U.S. military and diplomatic operations in Iraq and Afghanistan, pressing for special troop funding that he opposed two years ago when he was senator and George W. Bush was president. Obama's request, including money to send thousands more troops to Afghanistan, would push the costs of the two wars to almost $1 trillion since the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks, according to the Congressional Research Service. The additional money would cover operations into the fall. Obama is also requesting $400 million to upgrade security along the U.S.-Mexico border and to combat narcoterrorists.

Obama urges home refinancing

WASHINGTON — Declaring "good news" in the midst of an economic meltdown, President Barack Obama on Thursday urged families to take advantage of near-record low mortgage rates by refinancing their home loans. "We are at a time where people can really take advantage of this," Obama said, seated with a handful of homeowners who have already lowered their bills. But he also warned people to watch out for scam artists, cautioning, "If somebody is asking you for money up front before they help you with your refinancing, it's probably a scam." Rates on 30-year mortgages inched upward this week but remain near the lowest level in decades, allowing borrowers with strong credit and stable jobs to save money if they refinance.

More Ga. workers furloughed

ATLANTA — The number of state employees being furloughed continues to grow, with an increase of 27 percent in just over a month. At the beginning of April, 31,838 employees were listed as taking days off without pay to help their agencies save money. That compares to 24,969 in late February. Lt. Gov. Casey Cagle says he expects furloughs for many state agencies will continue into fiscal 2010, which begins July 1. The two biggest agencies to join the furloughs since February are the Department of Transportation and the Department of Revenue.

Kim in charge

SEOUL, South Korea — A visibly grayer and thinner Kim Jong Il proved Thursday he remains in charge of communist North Korea, presiding over parliament in a triumphant return to center stage after months out of the public eye following a reported stroke. Limping slightly, Kim arrived at the grand hall housing the 687-seat Supreme People's Assembly to a standing ovation and praise for a weekend rocket launch heralded as "historic" at home though assailed in some nations as provocative. Kim fed the world's curiosity for months about his health after reports said he had a stroke and underwent brain surgery in August — though North Korea has denied that he was ever ill.

Economy leveling off — but bumps not over

By JEANNINE AVERSA
AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON — At last, after a nerve-racking six-month descent, the economy appears to be leveling off.

But don't assume the bumps are over.

Stock investors, shoppers and home buyers are less jittery. Once-frozen credit markets are slowly thawing. And economic indicators that had been going from bad to worse are showing signs of stabilizing — though still at distressed levels.

There were fresh signs Thursday that the full force of the recession may be petering out: a strong profit forecast from Wells Fargo, a drop in unemployment benefit filings and several retailers predicting solid April sales. On Wall Street, the Dow Jones industrials rose nearly 250 points.

Still, with unemployment rising, it will be at least several months before the country's economic engine pops into a growth gear. Job losses — and the fear of them — act as a headwind against consumer confidence and spending, which account for more than two-thirds of the U.S. economy.

"The sense of a ball falling off a table, which is what the economy has felt like since the middle of last fall, I think we can be reasonably confident that that is going to end within the next few months, and we will no longer have that sense of a free-fall," President Barack Obama's top economic adviser, Lawrence Summers, said Thursday.

But Summers, who spoke at the Economic Club of Washington, said it was too soon to forecast how strong the rebound would be and when it would take hold.

The economy shrank at a 6.3 percent rate in the final three months of 2008, the worst showing in a quarter-century. Some economists say it fared about as poorly in the first three months of this year, while others expect a 4 to 5 percent rate of decline. The government releases its initial estimate at the end of April.

And the economy is still shrinking in the April-June quarter — perhaps at a rate of 2 to 2.5 percent, some analysts say.

When will it grow again? Maybe the final quarter of the year.

For now, said Brian Bethune, economist at IHS Global Insight, "I think we can say we've gone through the most terrible part of the recession."

Murder charged dismissed against mother

CARROLLTON, Ala. (AP) — The autopsy of an Alabama baby was so badly botched a judge dismissed a murder charge against the mother Thursday, and the state now plans to review every forensic case by the medical examiner who bungled the procedure.

Circuit Judge James Moore threw out the case against Bridget Lee, a 34-year-old church pianist who spent nine months in jail after being charged with her child's death in 2006. An initial autopsy found that the baby was suffocated, but reviews by six experts concluded the baby was stillborn and no crime occurred.

The medical examiner who worked on Lee's case, Dr. Corinne Stern, now works in Texas, where officials were just learning of the Alabama case. It's not known exactly how many homicide cases Stern worked on in Alabama, but officials said it could be as many as 100.

INSIDE INSURANCE

Flood insurance often neglected but very important

This year has already unleashed some strange weather considering the numerous early spring tornadoes, severe winter weather in the northern plains and the unusually heavy rains that continue to crisscross the South.

Of the severe weather events so far, heavy rain and flooding along with tornadoes are our chief concerns until hurricane season begins in June.

If you have homeowner's or renter's insurance, the policy typically covers damage or destruction from tornadoes, fires, trees falling on our property and related injuries. It's the flooding that presents a problem.

You'll need a separate flood insurance policy to cover damage resulting from "rising water" and that means flooding.

This year, in particular, heavy rains and flooding have occurred across much of the southern states and flooding has been widespread. Flood insurance provided by the Federal Emergency Management Agency's National Flood Insurance Program, can be purchased directly from the government or it can be available through your insurance company. Many insurers sell the policies on behalf of the government.

These policies can cost very little where the risk is relatively low, but the higher the risk, the more expensive the insurance. However, the benefit is significant should flooding damage or destroy a home or business.

Caution: Flood insurance must be in effect at least 30 days prior to filing a claim. Flood insurance for a rental property would cover your personal belongings but not the building. That would be the landlord's responsibility.

Several items are important to consider. In case of flooding, follow these steps:

Beware of hazards

- Check for structural damage before re-entering your home. Contact professionals immediately if you suspect damage to water, gas, electric or sewer lines.

- Throw away food that has come in contact with floodwaters.

- Boil water until authorities declare the water supply safe to drink.

File your flood insurance claim

- Call your insurance agent who handles your flood insurance to file a claim. Have the following information at hand: the name of your insurance company (your agent may write policies for more than one company); your policy number; and a telephone number/e-mail address where you can be reached.

- Take photos of any water in the house and damaged personal property. If necessary, place these items outside the home. Your adjuster will need evidence of the damage and damaged items (such as swatches from carpeting) to prepare your repair estimate.

- List damaged or lost items and include their age and value where possible. If possible, supply receipts for those lost items to the adjuster. Officials may require disposal of damaged items. If so, try to keep a swatch or other sample of the items for the adjuster.

David Colmans

- Remove wet contents immediately to prevent mold. Wet carpeting, furniture, bedding and other items holding moisture can develop mold within 24 to 48 hours.

Clean up

- During the first 48 hours, you can help control mold growth by cleaning with a phenolic or pine-oil cleaner (non-ammonia detergent, soap or commercial cleaner) and disinfecting with a 10 percent bleach solution (1-1/2 cups of bleach in a gallon of water). Then dry and monitor for several days. If any mold develops, throw the item away.

- Thoroughly dry out the building's interior. Portable dehumidifiers are useful and rental costs may be covered under your flood policy. An air conditioner can also be used to start the drying-out process.

- Help damaged walls dry out. If the walls are damaged, take photographs of the baseboard. Then remove it. Knock small holes at floor level in the drywall, between the wall studs. This will let moisture trapped behind the drywall seep out.

- Have your furnace checked for damage. Your water heater may work, but if the floodwater covered part of, or the entire tank, the insulation between the walls may be damaged. Obtain an estimate to replace the damaged furnace and water heater.

- Contact your local building inspections or planning office or county clerk's office to get more information on local building requirements before repairing your structure. If you can't find a local contact, call your state NFIP coordinator. Contact information can be found at www.floods.org/statepocs/stcoor.asp.

On the Web

To know more about the risk of flooding where you live, here is the Web site for the FEMA Flood Map Locator: msc.fema.gov. Enter your address and then zoom in to your street to see if there is a chance of flooding where you live.

Another excellent Web site gives county-by-county weather warnings and is constantly updated. It site provides, among other things, flood watches and warnings, tornado watches and warnings as well as other weather events: Wunderground Weather Warnings: www.wunderground.com/severe.asp?region=se&set-prefs.0.key=SVRMAP&set-prefs.0.val=se#gotoMap Intellicast.com is one of the best Web sites for viewing weather conditions. Insurance company catastrophe teams use this site, among others, to keep up with the progress of storms. You will see storms that contain hail, rotation in the clouds, an indicator of a possible tornado, weather watch boxes and even the height of the cloud tops as well as the speed and direction at which the storms are moving.

Also participating in the presentation were Monsignor Bill Hoffman, administrator for St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Dalton, who led the group in prayer and blessed the machine and all those who would use it and benefit from its use.

The Georgia State Council of the Knights of Columbus presented a Sonoace Pico Ultrasound machine to the Women's Enrichment Center in Dalton, the Solemnity of the Annunciation and Knights of Columbus International Day of the Unborn Child.

The Knights of Columbus ultrasound project seeks to provide medically certified pro-life pregnancy centers with the modern technology to monitor the health of babies in utero, and to allow mothers to visually experience that development. Some studies have shown that as many as 70 percent of pregnant women who are considering an abortion will instead have their child after having an ultrasound procedure.

Three more centers have already been identified to receive machines, and fundraising continues to purchase those. Anyone interested in donating to this cause can send their tax-deductible donations to Columbian Charities of Georgia, c/o Mark Corrigan, 6201 Garrard Ave., Savannah, GA 31405.

Church holds Easter service in nightclub

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A fledging Arkansas church will see if distilled spirits can mix with the Holy Spirit this Easter weekend.

A new Little Rock church called The River will hold both of its Easter services at The Rev Room, a bar and nightclub in the city's River Market.

Pastor Shane Montgomery told KLRT-TV that it's an effort to attract a new audience to his non-denominational ministry.

However, bar employees say it's not yet clear if their liquor license will allow them to serve beer and booze during a Sunday morning service.

The church says it would also like to hold Mother's Day and Father's Day services at a bar.

DHS Players to present 'Little Women'

The Dalton High School Drama Club will present 'Little Women, the Broadway Musical' April 30 to May 3 at the Dalton High Theatre. Based on the novel by Louisa May Alcott, "Little Women" tells the story of the March family of Concord, Mass., during the Civil War.

While their father is away at war, the four March sisters (Jo, Meg, Beth and Amy) pass the time performing stories written by Jo, who promises that her stories will one day earn enough money to make all their dreams come true. But Jo's plans to keep the family together go awry when Meg falls in love and marries Mr. John Brooke, the tutor of the girls' young neighbor, Theodore Laurence (Laurie), Amy tours Europe with the girls' Aunt March, where she becomes engaged to Laurie, and Beth contracts scarlet fever.

Jo sets off for New York, where her stories are rejected by several publishers until she takes the advice of Professor Bhaer, a fellow tenant of the boarding house where Jo resides. When Beth finally succumbs to the scarlet fever, her sister's death ultimately inspires Jo to write a different story — the story of her sisters and their adventures growing up in Concord, a story titled "Little Women."

The musical features a script by Allan Knee, lyrics by Mindi Dickstein, and music by Jason Howland.

The DHS production features Meg Scalise, Lizzie Baker, Katie Beth Jewell and Spencer McCraven as Jo, Meg, Beth and Amy. Also featured are Grace Bramlett as the girls' mother, Marmee; Josh Parrott as Laurie; Tanner Blackton as Aunt March; Zach Barton as Mr. Brooke; Jonathan Meade as Professor Bhaer; A.D. McDaniel as Laurie's curmudgeonly father, Mr. Laurence; and Elissa Lopez as Mrs. Kirk, the owner of the Boarding House.

Playing the parts of characters in Jo's stories are Emily Plaisted, Andres Bustamante, Hunter Ford, Gregg McCurry, Roncia Anderson, Max Woodard, Caleb Satterfield, Ebbie Belles, Chelsea Montgomery, Lauren Havelin, Caitlin McDonald, Missy Delgado and Stephanie Garcia.

"Little Women, the Broadway Musical" will be presented beginning Thursday, April 30 at 7 p.m. in the DHS Theatre. Performances continue Friday and Saturday, May 1 and 2 at 7 p.m., and Sunday, May 3 at 2 p.m. In-school performances are scheduled for Wednesday, April 29.

Tickets are $10 for adults and $7 for students. Tickets for the in-school performances are $5 and will go on sale the week of April 20.

Quilt of many colors

Students make quilt representing Germany of the 16 states in Germany to teach to the class. Their visual aid involved a 12 by 12 square of muslin fabric.

Several used their artistic skills and others used the computer to create the artwork on the muslin.

The project began last semester and Ms. Franey completed the quilt in March.

Training pays off

Stephany Alejandre and Norma Rodriguez had just completed their first day of "clinicals" in the Certified Nursing Assistant Program at Dalton State College. Overwhelmed with the knowledge and tasks they had accomplished, they were just ready to get home.

They had been at school at Dalton High that morning, and like they had done every day, completed coursework at Dalton State.

What was different about this day? The girls were almost to their homes when they saw a man walking along the road.

At first nothing appeared out of the ordinary, but as Stephany looked in the rearview mirror, she saw the man start walking in circles and entering the busy street. Cars were honking their horns and driving around the man.

Stephany felt something tug at her and she turned the car around almost getting into a crash in the process. She then parked the car near the man and blocked the lane turning on her hazards.

The two students then made a decision to get out and help the man. They walked up to him. He was not making sense as he muttered some kind of code numbers. He did not say his name or where he was from. But instead of panicking, they stayed calm.

Stephany Alejandre and Norma Rodriguez

They knew that Peachtree Estates was very close by, so they walked the man to the building. Waiting outside was the man's very worried wife. The ladies then found out that the man has Alzheimer's and had used the code he muttered to leave the care center. His wife was very thankful that he had been found and brought back home.

Instructors of the Certified Nursing Program, Leah Petty and Karen Griffin, had told all their students to be prepared for any situation that would involve using their skills they had learned in class.

"I felt if I wouldn't have done it, people would have kept passing by and ignoring that he was there," Stephany said. And although she was very nervous at the time, she said she would definitely stop and help again.

The Dalton High School Drama Club will present "Little Women, the Broadway Musical" April 30-May 3 in the Dalton High Theatre. Based on the novel by Louisa May Alcott, "Little Women" tells the story of the March family of Concord, Mass., during the Civil War.

While their father is away at war, the four March sisters (Jo, Meg, Beth and Amy) pass the time performing stories written by Jo, who promises that her stories will one day earn enough money to make all their dreams come true. But Jo's plans to keep the family together go awry when Meg falls in love and marries Mr. John Brooke, the tutor of the girls' young neighbor, Theodore Laurence (Laurie), Amy tours Europe with the girls' Aunt March, where she becomes engaged to Laurie, and Beth contracts scarlet fever.

Jo sets off for New York, where her stories are rejected by several publishers until she takes the advice of Professor Bhaer, a fellow tenant of the boarding house where Jo resides. When Beth finally succumbs to the scarlet fever, her sister's death ultimately inspires Jo to write a different story — the story of her sisters and their adventures growing up in Concord, a story entitled "Little Women."

The DHS production features Meg Scalise, Lizzie

Baker, Katie Beth Jewell and Spencer McCraven as Jo, Meg, Beth and Amy. Also featured are Grace Bramlett as the girls' mother, Marmee; Josh Parrott as Laurie; Tanner Blackton as Aunt March; Zach Barton as Mr. Brooke; Jonathan Meade as Professor Bhaer; A.D. McDaniel as Laurie's curmudgeonly father, Mr. Laurence; and Elissa Lopez as the owner of the boarding house, Mrs. Kirk.

Playing the parts of characters in Jo's stories are Emily Plaisted, Andres Bustamante, Hunter Ford, Gregg McCurry, Roncia Anderson, Max Woodard, Caleb Satterfield, Ebbie Belles, Chelsea Montgomery, Lauren Havelin, Caitlin McDonald, Missy Delgado and Stephanie Garcia.

The production also features a rotating two-story set designed by DHS drama instructor Wes Phinney and art teacher Trevor Ledford. Since January, building and decorating the set (as well as two prop pianos) has been the job of approximately 30 DHS students in Ledford's scene design class, who are receiving a monumental hands-on educational experience in set construction.

"Little Women, the Broadway Musical" will be presented beginning April 30 at 7 p.m. Performances continue May 1 and 2 at 7 p.m., and May 3 at 2 p.m.

Tickets will be available at the door and are $10 for adults and $7 for students.

Author McArthur to speak about book

Betsy McArthur will speak about her book "Bound For Glory" at the next meeting of the Tunnel Hill Historical Foundation on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited.

Organizers say the book takes a fresh, exciting look at a fascinating aspect of Civil War history, the citizen-soldier company. The militia organization has had a distinguished record in America since the Colonial Period and continues today as the National Guard.

This chronicle of the Darlington (S.C.) Rifles militia begins with the origin of the unit in 1834 and concludes with the company's distinguished role as part of 8th SC Volunteer Infantry, C.S.A., in the first bloody battle of the war, First Manassas (Bull Run).

The meeting will be at the Tunnel Hill Heritage Center, 215 Clisby Austin Road. For more information, call (706) 876-1571.

The Tunnel Hill Historical Foundation Board will meet at 6:45 p.m.

Surging Dalton rolls past Rome

FROM STAFF REPORTS

Dalton's baseball team just keep zipping along. The Catamounts, with second baseman Stryker Brown collecting three hits and driving in two runs, defeated host Rome 8-3 on Thursday to remain unbeaten in Region 7-4A's north sub-region. Garren Palmer and Phillip Schenck each went 2-for-4 and drove in a run. The Cats are 11-4 overall and 6-0 in the sub-region. John Erwin went six innings and picked up the win. He struck out seven with no walks and gave up nine hits. Reliever Nick Ray struck out the side in the seventh. Northwest Whitfield 7, Sequoyah 3: The Bruins (11-6, 4-2) were outthit 13-8, but Northwest had six extra-base hits, including three home runs, and bounced back from a 17-2 loss to Dalton on Wednesday with the Region 7-4A victory at Sequoyah. Brent Stephens went 2-for-4 with an RBI double and solo home run in the seventh for the Bruins. Diego Hernandez was 2-for-3 with a two-run homer in the fourth and Cody Jones led off the sixth with a solo home run. Hunter Key was 2-for-4 with a run-scoring triple. Trailing 1-0, Chase Plott was hit by a pitch with two out in the third inning. Courtesy runner Corey Cole stole second and scored on Jordan Darnell's single. Darnell then scored on Key's triple to give the Bruins a 2-1 lead. "They outhit us," Bruins coach Todd Middleton said, "but we scored runs on just about all our hits." Plott went the distance for

Raiders win at Heritage

BY MARTY KIRKLAND

martykirkland@daltoncitizen.com
RINGGOLD — A day after being on the wrong side of a one-run game on the road, Southeast High's baseball team found itself on the right side of the same scenario Thursday. What it took to create that situation in the Region 6-3A game at Heritage-Catoosa left the Raiders feeling more a sense of relief than celebration over the 7-6 victory. After a five-run first inning, Southeast had to battle to hold that lead throughout the game. And then the Raiders had to just hang on during the bottom of the seventh, which started with them ahead 7-4 but ended only when first baseman Dylan Massengill made a heads-up play to offset four infield errors in the inning. "We're always happy to win," Raiders coach Jason Keller said.

GOLF: THE MASTERS

Torrid start aids Campbell

Furyk, Mahan trail by one

BY DOUG FERGUSON

Associated Press Writer

AUGUSTA — Chad Campbell ran off five straight birdies, the best start ever in the Masters. Jim Furyk charged up the crowd with four straight birdies late in his round. Even that notoriously slow starter, Tiger Woods, got in on the action.

Anyone worried that Augusta National had lost its excitement only had to listen to the sweetest of sounds Thursday. The roars returned to the Masters.

Campbell led an assault on the record book with nine birdies in 15 holes before two late mistakes made him settle for a 7-under 65 and a one-shot lead over Furyk and Hunter Mahan. "It is nice to hear some noises again," Sandy Lyle said.

Augusta National cooked up the perfect formula for record scoring — warm sunshine and only a gentle breeze, along with inviting hole locations and greens that were soft and smooth. The cheers came from all corners for 11 hours of golf that produced six eagles and 354 birdies. There were 19 rounds in the 60s, the most ever for the first round, and only four fewer than the entire tournament last year.

It was so easy that Woods nearly broke 70 in the opening round for the first time in his career. Playing in his first major since winning the U.S. Open last summer, Woods ran off three straight birdies late in the afternoon and was poised to climb even further up the leaderboard until he missed birdie putts of 8 feet and 4 feet, then hit a shot over the 18th green that led to a bogey and a 2-under 70.

Even so, it was his first time to break par in the first round of the Masters since 2002, one of four years he's won a green jacket. "They must have felt sorry for us," Campbell said.

Masters chairman Billy Payne had said this year would be an important test to show that supersizing the golf course — it has been stretched more than 500 yards this decade — would not take the thrills out of the Masters.

The weather was ideal, yes, but the club did its part, too, with greens softer than they have been all week and hole locations that allowed players to attack the pins.

The result was 38 rounds under par, another Masters record for the first round.

Greg Norman played for the first time since 2002, and the 54-year-old Shark was shocked by all the changes. Even more shocking was that he shot a 70 and was mildly disappointed.

"Really could have shot a nice, mid-60s score today," Norman said. "I'm not complaining."

The average score was 72.25, nearly two shots easier than a year ago and the lowest since it was 72.06 in 1992.

"This day was reminiscent of how it used to be," Woods said. "You could go out there on that back nine and make some birdies, and if you caught some good gusts, you could shoot some pretty good numbers."

Woods figured that out even before he got to the back nine.

If the cheers weren't enough, all he had to do was look at the white leaderboards

Jim Furyk hits out of the rough on the first hole during the first round of the Masters on Thursday at the Augusta National Golf Club. Furyk shot a 6-under par 66 and held a short-lived lead until Chad Campbell posted a 7-under 65 later in the day. And Hunter Mahan matched Furyk's 66 while Shingo Katayama and Larry Mize were both at 5-under 67.

Bruins' Reno earns top awards

BY LARRY FLEMING

larryfleming@daltoncitizen.com

Northwest Whitfield boys basketball coach Ryan Richards wanted his team to enjoy this past season. He wanted them to practice and prepare hard and play hard, but when game time rolled around the Bruins were instructed to relax and have fun.

PREP BASKETBALL

"I told the guys the first game of the season against Rockmart in the Southeast Thanksgiving tournament we built the team around the idea of having fun," Richards said. "They worked hard and gave us great effort, but I wanted them to have fun. And this was the best team in my six years as far as being a true team. They were unselfish and there weren't many conflicts or problems. The kids enjoyed being here."

Northwest finished 17-7 overall and 9-5 in Region 7-4A but missed a state tournament berth with a 33-31 loss to Sprayberry in the region tourney.

"It's easy to get caught up in worrying about everything, winning and losing and all that stuff," Richards said. "I told myself we weren't going to get stressed. We were in a new region and didn't know what to expect from a lot of the teams. I wanted them to play for each other, and I think the team reached its capabilities."

The Bruins and Lady Bruins, who went 28-3 and reached the quarterfinals of the state tournament, celebrated their seasons Thursday night during the annual banquet at the school.

"Anytime you sweep your rivals — we swept Southeast three times, Dalton twice and split with Murray County — locally, that's good for us," Richards said. "And we beat the No. 3 team in the state (Hillgrove). Defensively, we held people to 46 points a game."

CLASSIC APPROACHES

Dalton Mayor David Pennington, a Northwest Georgia Healthcare Partnership board member, near right, along with former NGHP board member Brian Anderson, greets participants at the finish line of the timed 2K during the 2008 Bill Gregory Healthcare Classic. Finishers received drawstring bags donated by Health One Alliance. In hopes of increasing youth participation in this year's Classic, the timed 2K event will featured as the "Kid's Classic" and is for anyone younger than 19. Awards will be given for first through 10th place in the race. The Classic's 5K and untimed 2K will still be open to walkers or runners of any age. Pre-registration, when the entry fee is just $15, closes April 21. This year's Classic is scheduled for May 2 at the Bradley Wellness Center, with registration beginning at 7 a.m. and the 5K scheduled for 8.

Banquet: 28 wins tied mark with the Bruins was an enjoyable one.

"We got a lot of wins, the most for coach Richards, and it definitely was a good season," said Reno, who earned Most Valuable Player and Best Offensive awards, plus recognition for setting a school single-season record with 77 3-point shots made. "At almost every game, even the players were telling each other to relax and have fun out there."

Reno hopes to continue his basketball career in college and has sent out video highlights and statistics to at least "15 or 20 schools." He attended a tryout at Covenant College on Lookout Mountain and has sent information to schools like Oglethorpe University, North Carolina-Asheville, La-Grange College and West Georgia University.

"I just love playing basketball," the 6-foot guard said. "It doesn't have to be the best college basketball program, I just want to play college ball."

Coach Margaret Stockburger changed her approach to the postseason awards banquet, choosing to give team plaques to each varsity player rather than individual awards, although Jasmine Thornton and Callie Thomas were honored as team captains.

"I felt like it was a 100 percent team effort this year," said Stockburger, who is 279-91 in 13 seasons as the Lady Bruins' coach. "All the girls got patches to put on their letterman's jacket and we just left it at that."

The 28 wins this season tied the school record set in 1999-2000 when the Lady Bruins went 28-2.

This year's squad, led by Daily Citizen All-Area Player of the Year Quaneisha McCurdy and All-Area selections Christy Robinson and Baleigh Coley, was undefeated in region play and came within one win of reaching the Class 4A semifinals. Southwest DeKalb derailed the Lady Bruins, 57-49, in the round played at West Georgia University in Carrollton.

"We've got a great nucleus coming back next season and a lot of them are already into AAU ball," Stockburger said.

"We met with the players earlier in the week. I think they'll all get better over the summer and it's exciting to think about what they can accomplish next year."

"We'll start lifting weights in May and our summer ball will start once we're out of school."

Like her players, Stockburger shows no signs of slowing down.

"I'm going to do this as long as it doesn't become a job," she said.

"It's fun being around the players and the game of basketball. Right now it's not a job to me. I enjoy the time we put into the game and I enjoy seeing the girls progress from the time they're freshmen to the time they graduate."

Raiders: Cook picks up save

"It's just, we're a lot better ball club than we show."

Still, the victory over the first-year Generals (1-13, 0-4) kept the Raiders (7-8, 2-3) from tumbling out of the pack in the region standings.

"The north part of the region's going to fight," Keller said. "Everybody's right there, so every win you can get is a big win."

Colby Cook picked up a save after enduring the seventh's bumpy ride, which included a wild pitch from the senior left-hander. Cook took over after Matt Chattin's leadoff single chased Cory Bevans, who had taken over on the mound when Massengill's start lasted just 2 1/3 innings.

The Generals cut the lead to two runs on Jake Wallin's sacrifice fly to right that scored Chattin, then trimmed it to one when pinch-hitter Patrick Kolwyck reached on a two-out error by third baseman Bradley Grant, whose throw to first was short and in the dirt before getting past Massengill.

"I just didn't want to overthrow and didn't want to throw it away," said Grant, who had already done plenty to make up for the miscue with a 3-for-4 day at the plate, including an RBI triple in the first, and also turned an unassisted double play in the second.

"I just started thinking, and you can't think on a play like that. You've just got to react."

David Zatelli, who was courtesy-running for Hunter White — who had also reached on an error — scored on the play. But Cody Sherlin, yet another baserunner by virtue of an error, was cut down while trying to score from second as Massengill recovered the ball behind first base and threw home to catcher Caleb Moore.

Game over. Work just beginning.

"It's frustrating because we work so hard on the little phases of the game," Keller said. "Then when it counts, we don't make those plays."

Bevans picked up the win after allowing two runs (one earned) on five hits while walking none and striking out one in 4 2/3 innings.

Cook, who had pitched six innings during Southeast's 3-2 loss at LaFayette on Wednesday, said he relishes taking the ball in tight spots. When the situation grew dire at Heritage, he looked to his mental approach to keep him grounded.

"I just try to be pretty optimistic about things," Cook said. "You just keep having confidence in (the defense). Everybody makes mistakes. And Dylan made up for it."

Southeast's potent first inning, during which the Raiders batted around, also included a two-run homer from Tanner McCutchen. The Raiders added another run in both the fifth and sixth, while the Generals spread out their scoring, picking up one in the first, two in the third and one in the fifth before their final rally attempt fell short.

The Raiders' Michael Simpson went 2-for-4 with a double, two stolen bases and an RBI, while Massengill was 2-for-3 with a walk and Trey Parris was 2-for-3 with an RBI. McCutchen also added an RBI double, while Grant scored twice and had two stolen bases.

The teams combined for five double plays during the game — three by the Generals, two by the Raiders — with all but one an inning-ending turn.

Masters: Mize shoots a 67

that were filled with red numbers.

Larry Mize, in his rookie year on the Champions Tour, became only the second player over 50 to shoot a 67. The other was Jack Nicklaus, who did it twice.

Shingo Katayama also had a 67, while the group at 68 included 48-year-old Kenny Perry, former Masters champion Mike Weir, Sean O'Hair and former U.S. Open champion Angel Cabrera.

British Open and PGA champion Pádraig Harrington opened with a 69, a strong start in his bid to join Woods and Ben Hogan as the only players to win three successive majors.

The Irishman once said Augusta National was among the few courses that could control the scores by how the course was set up, and it was so perfect that he wondered whether the club had more power than he imagined.

"They got a nice, sunny day with no wind," he said. "Do they have control over that?"

The course was only 10 yards shorter than last year, at least according to the scorecard, but the tees were moved forward on several holes, and the pins were in generous spots, where the ball could easily funnel down a slope near the cup.

"It is interesting for us and it is exciting for us when there is a buzz like that out there," Harrington said. "But definitely, when you hear a lot of cheers around, it makes you a little bit more anxious to be part of that, just a little more urgency to make sure you are making birdies, too."

That's what made Phil Mickelson so disgusted.

The two-time Masters champion, who has a chance to go to No. 1 in the world with a victory, failed to take advantage of the easier hole locations and made only two birdies in his round of 73.

"I drove it terrible," Mickelson said. "I played terrible."

A year ago, shooting a 73 would have been a relief on a course that players felt had become more like a U.S. Open. On a day like this, and a course like this, it felt like an opportunity wasted.

Campbell wasted a chance to make major championship history with his incredible opening round.

No one had ever started a Masters with five straight birdies, and Campbell added to that with four straight birdies on the back nine, including an 8-iron that narrowly cleared the bunker at the par-3 12th and settled 5 feet away. Then there was a beautiful pitch to a foot on the 15th that put him at 9 under for the round.

MS softball

■ Lookout Valley 13, Christian Heritage 7: Susan Meinders went 3-for-3 while Cara Griggs added two hits for Christian Heritage (0-6).

Lady Lions pitcher Megan McKinney struck out four in the losing cause.

MS tennis

■ Darlington boys 3, Dalton 2: Nathan Bryant won 8-3 and Efra Usconga and Ryan Harper won 9-8 for the Cougars.

■ Dalton girls 3, Darlington 2: Anna Grace Wilson posted an 8-6 win while Rachel Bakker and Sheridan Fromm won 9-7 and Marylyn Braun and Michelle Rogers won 8-5 for the Lady Cougars (5-1).

MS track

■ The Eastbrook boys won the Whitfield County Middle School Athletic League track meet with 154 points. Westside was second with 125, New Hope and North Whitfield each had 63 and Valley Point 27.

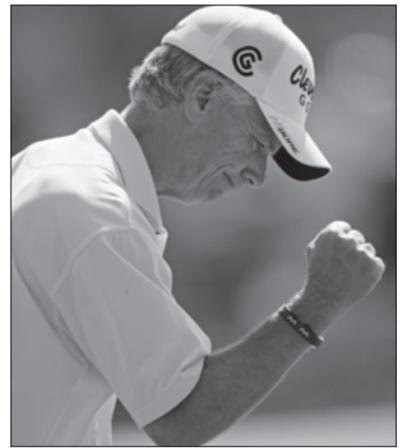

In the girls competition, Valley Point won with 135 points to Westside's 107. Eastbrook had 87 points, North Whitfield 54 and New Hope 50.

Larry Mize reacts to saving par on the 17th hole during first-round play in the Masters in Augusta.

The course record at Augusta National is 63. No one has ever shot lower in any major. Campbell could not help but think of the record, and the gallery was there to remind him.

"They were yelling everything," Campbell said. "You know, 'One more. Get to 10. 63.' I heard it all. It was good, though."

But he pulled his tee shot on the 17th into the trees and made bogey, then three-putted for a bogey from 40 feet on the 18th. Even so, it was the best opening-round score at Augusta since Chris DiMarco had a 65 in 2001.

Furyk putted for birdie on every hole and was the only player without a bogey on his card.

"That doesn't happen very often here," he said.

Woods was late to the party, not making a birdie until the ninth hole and cringing as so many birdie putts burned the edge. But he came to life with a two-putt birdie on the 13th, then a 20-foot birdie on the slope on the 14th, and another two-putt birdie from just off the back of the green on the par-5 15th.

"You could tell the way guys were tearing the place apart," Woods said. "You could definitely go get it."

He was not the least bit concerned dropping a shot at the end of his day, leaving him five shots behind. Woods has never broken 70 in the first round, yet he still has four green jackets.

And as fun as it was Thursday, no one is sure what to expect over the next three days.

"I'm going to find out from Dr. Andrews if that's going to be a permanent thing, and I'll have to deal with it, or if there's something more that we can do," Kennedy told the Miami Herald.

"I'd rather be a part of it (WWE)

PRO BASEBALL: ROUNDUP

Carpenter stymies Pirates

AP SPORTS WRITER

ST. LOUIS — Chris Carpenter took a no-hit bid into the seventh inning and combined with two relievers on a one-hitter, leading the St. Louis Cardinals over the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 Thursday.

Carpenter (1-0) didn't allow a hit until Ramon Vazquez singled just under the glove of second baseman Skip Schumaker with two outs in the seventh. Schumaker made a poor throw to second on a potential inning-ending double play the previous at-bat, nearly pulling shortstop Khalil Greene off the bag on Brandon Moss' grounder and getting only a forceout.

Pittsburgh had scored an unearned run in the third against Carpenter following an error by first baseman Albert Pujols. The 2005 NL Cy Young Award winner, Carpenter didn't pitch from April 1, 2007, until last July 30 because of an elbow injury that required reconstructive surgery and he made just four appearances totaling 15 1-3 innings last season.

Carpenter struck out seven and walked two, throwing 92 pitches as he improved to 10-1 with a 2.06 ERA in 12 starts against Pittsburgh.

Ryan Franklin and Dennys Reyes followed with an inning each of perfect relief.

Yadier Molina and pinch-hitter Brian Barden had RBI singles in the seventh against Ross Ohlendorf (0-1).

■ Reds 8, Mets 6: At Cincinnati, Joey Votto had a three-run homer and a run-scoring single off Oliver Perez, who rarely has such a tough time against a left-handed hitter, and Cincinnati beat the New York Mets.

Right-hander Bronson Arroyo (1-0) pitched like he's recovered from his latest bout of carpal tunnel syndrome, giving up five runs in six innings. Francisco Cordero struck out the side in the ninth, converting Cincinnati's first save opportunity of the season.

Votto went 7-for-13 in the series with a pair of three-run homers and seven RBIs.

■ Padres 4, Dodgers 3: At San Diego, Adrian Gonzalez's solo homer started a three-run rally in the eighth inning that carried San Diego past Los Angeles.

Closer Heath Bell got out of a jam in the ninth and the Padres salvaged a split of an opening, four-game series against the defending NL West champion Dodgers.

The Dodgers had been working on a combined three-hitter before Gonzalez's one-out, opposite-field homer Will Ohman off the facade of the second deck in left-center pulled San Diego to 3-2. It was Gonzalez's first.

American League

■ Yankees 11, Orioles 2: At Baltimore, New York got standout performances by newcomers A.J. Burnett, Nick Swisher and Mark Teixeira to beat Baltimore.

Burnett (1-0) allowed two runs in 5 1/3 innings in his New York debut, Swisher went 3-for-5 with a homer and a career-high tying five RBIs, and Teixeira had two hits and a home run.

Robinson Cano homered and scored four runs for the Yankees.

■ Blue Jays 6, Tigers 2: At Toronto, Ricky Romero outpitched Rick Porcello in the first matchup of former first-round draft picks making their major league debuts against each other, and Toronto rallied to beat Detroit for its third win in the opening four-game series.

Marco Scutaro hit a two-run homer, and Aaron Hill and Adam Lind added solo shots for Toronto. Lind went 3-for-4, raising his average to .583.

■ Rays 4, Red Sox 3: At Boston, Matt Garza pitched seven innings of four-hit ball, Tampa Bay hit three homers off Daisuke Matsuzaka, and the Rays beat Boston.

Evan Longoria had three hits, including a two-run homer, and Matt Joyce and Shawn Riggins also homered for the defending AL champions.

Garza (1-0) allowed one run and three walks, struck out five to improved to 6-1 against the Red Sox.

Matsuzaka (0-1) gave up four runs, nine hits and three walks in 5 1/3 innings.

■ Mariners 2, Twins 0: At Minneapolis, Jarrod Washburn gave up five hits in eight innings and Brandon Morrow got his first save of the season to lead Seattle past Minnesota.

Washburn (1-0) struck out four with just one walk to get his first victory since July 27. Adrian Belte and Rob Johnson had RBI singles for the Mariners split the four-game set.

After Morrow gave up three runs in the ninth on Tuesday night in a 6-5 loss, new manager Don Wakamatsu sent the 24-year-old right back out there again.

■ Royals 2, White Sox 1: At Chicago, Coco Crisp's two-run homer in the ninth inning broke a scoreless tie and Kansas City defeated Chicago.

The Royals took two of three from the AL Central champion White Sox in the season-opening series.

Crisp connected off Bobby Jenks (0-1). Alberto Callaspo doubled with one out and Crisp hit the next pitch for his first home run of the season.

The White Sox scored on Jermaine Dye's RBI grounder in the ninth.

■ Rangers 12, Indians 8: At Arlington, Texas, Marlon Byrd and Ian Kinsler hit long home runs and Texas completed a season-opening sweep of Cleveland.

Byrd's homer was a three-run shot that capped a five-run first off Carl Pavano (0-1). Byrd matched a career high with five RBIs.

PRO FOOTBALL: BUFFALO BILLS

Owens: Arrival non-issue

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — Terrell Owens showed up for the Buffalo Bills voluntary workout sessions a few weeks late and wondering what all the fuss was about.

With a shrug of his shoulders, Owens noted he wasn't the first or only NFL player to miss a session where attendance isn't mandatory. It just seemed that way to T.O., based on the headlines he generated after failing to arrive for the start of the program on March 23.

"That's the thing, what I find so unfair about it is that I'm not the only guy out of 32 teams that didn't show up," Owens said Thursday. "That's what's so frustrating about the whole thing is that everybody nitpicks at anything and everything I do."

No stranger to creating a buzz during a prolific and attention-grabbing 13-year NFL career, Owens noted he's aware that his reputation isn't going to change now that he's with his fourth team after signing a one-year $6.5 million contract with the Bills shortly after Dallas released him last month.

"I realize that's part of it," he said. "In a sense it motivates me, and I'm really looking forward to the season."

Now that he is in town, Owens intends to take part in all the team's voluntary minicamps once they open next month.

Owens also had a message for anyone questioning whether he'll be a disruption. Owens said: "No worries."

With a red Bills cap turned backward on his head, and wearing a loose white Bills wind-breaker and blue tights, Owens looked in good shape. After working out on his own, Owens said he traveled to Buffalo for additional workouts along with his own personal trainer, James 'Buddy' Primm.

Owens said he's already discussed his off-season schedule with head coach Dick Jauron and receivers coach Tyke Tolbert, and informed them that he'll be traveling back and forth between Buffalo and his offseason home in Miami.

Though he's yet to find a temporary place to live in Buffalo, Owens joked that he might "shack up" with a member of the Bills coaching staff.

"You never know," Owens said with a wink. "So I'm still looking."

A month since the Bills made one of the NFL's biggest splashes this offseason, the buzz about T.O. in Buffalo has yet to diminish. Owens attracted attention a few weeks ago when he and fellow Bills receiver Lee Evans sat courtside at a Toronto Raptors game. There's even a sign on an expressway entering town that someone has altered with spray paint to read: "Welcome t.o. Buffalo."

Owens has also toured Buffalo, and been made to feel welcome by the Bills fans he's met.

"So far I'm loving it," he said.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Peterson turns down Appy State

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Charlotte Bobcats director of player personnel Buzz Peterson has turned down the coaching job at Appalachian State. Peterson said Thursday it was "bad timing" to return to the school.

Peterson was 79-39 in four seasons at Appalachian State before leaving in 2000 for Tulsa. He later coached four seasons at Tennessee before getting fired in 2005. Peterson then coached Coastal Carolina for two years before taking a job with the Bobcats in 2007. Appalachian State is looking to replace Houston Fancher, his former assistant at Appalachian who was promoted when Peterson left. Fancher was ousted last month with one year left on his contract.

SoCon tourney goes to Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — In an effort to reduce costs and bring more excitement to the nation's longest running college basketball tournament, the Southern Conference is returning to Charlotte next year for the first time since 1971.

The conference on Thursday announced its 2010 men's and women's basketball tournaments will move to Charlotte from Chattanooga, Tenn., where it had previously been scheduled. Chattanooga will host the event instead in 2011 and pay a reduced financial guarantee.

MLB Network adds some games

SECAUCUS, N.J. — The MLB Network is adding a package of Saturday games to its schedule, doubling the total of live broadcasts in its first season to 52.

The Saturday package opens this weekend when Arizona hosts the Los Angeles Dodgers at 8:10 p.m. EDT. Games will be blacked out in each team's home television territory.

The MLB Network also is broadcasting a package of Thursday night games.

Louisville star to Dream in draft

SECAUCUS, N.J. — The Atlanta Dream selected Angel McCoughtry with the first pick in the WNBA draft Thursday.

The Louisville forward averaged 22.8 points and 9.5 rebounds during her last three years and led the Cardinals to the NCAA championship game Tuesday against winner Connecticut.

The All-American joins a vastly improved Atlanta team a year after finishing its inaugural season 4-30 and setting a WNBA record for losses. The Dream have added former All-Stars Chamique Holdsclaw and Michelle Snow, as well as Nikki Teasley and Sancho Lyttle in the offseason.

Calhoun plans to return to UConn

HARTFORD, Conn. — Connecticut coach Jim Calhoun said Thursday he plans to return for a 24th season at the school.

Calhoun's Huskies finished the season 31-5, losing in the national semifinals to Michigan State.

Several off-the-court issues had prompted questions about Calhoun's future, including an investigation into UConn's recruitment of former player Nate Miles.

The coach also has been treated for cancer three times during his UConn career, including last summer.

Cavs feel right at home

By Tom Withers
Associated Press Writer

CLEVELAND — During a timeout in the fourth quarter of Wednesday night's easy win over Washington, LeBron James and a few of his teammates cut loose.

As the arena's booming sound system pumped "Poison," a 1990 pop hit by R&B boy band Bell Biv DeVoe, James did his karaoke rendition of the song and busted a few moves as guards Mo Williams and Delonte West playfully danced near Cleveland's bench.

They were acting foolish — and didn't seem to care one bit.

In the comfort of home, the Cavaliers feel like they can do anything.

With a 38-1 record at home, the Cavs, who have spent this season breaking almost every franchise record on the books, are approaching a hallowed league mark. If they win their final two games in Cleveland, they will match the NBA's best all-time home record set by the 1985-86 Boston Celtics.

"It's ridiculous," veteran forward Joe Smith said of Cleveland's home success. "We actually don't talk about it in the locker room, but whenever we step on the floor and that record is announced before the game, it kind of sends chills through your body."

Here's another reason to shiver: The Celtics will visit on Sunday.

Cleveland's only home loss came on Feb. 8, a 101-91 setback to the Los Angeles Lakers, who stopped the Cavs' home winning streak at 23. Since then, they've reeled off 15 in a row at Quicken Loans Arena, becoming the first team in league history to have two 15-game home winning streaks in the same season.

There have been a few close calls along the way, most recently a four-point win over Orlando and a five-pointer in overtime against Portland.

But, other than the Lakers, no one has topped them.

"Somehow we've found a way to win, especially lately," said center Zydrunas Ilgauskas, the team's elder statesman who can appreciate Cleveland's home dominance after playing on a 2002-03 Cavs team that went just 14-27 at home. "We don't think any differently than we do on the road. We just come out, prepare and play. There really hasn't been anything special that we've been doing."

Maybe James' should get some ruby-colored sneakers. Because like Dorothy Gale, that fictional Kansas girl with the cute little dog, ruby slippers and a longing to leave Oz, the Cavaliers feel there's no place like home.

"What we've been able to do at home is unbelievable," James said. "It's something Jeff Gordon drove his No. 24 Chevy Sunday to his first victory at Texas.

Finally, No. 24!

Gordon ends 47-race losing streak with victory at Texas

Jeff Gordon's drought-breaking win at Texas Motor Speedway on Sunday, coupled with his strong performances elsewhere this season, seem to indicate that NASCAR's all-time record book soon will look a lot different, at least near the top.

Gordon's win at Texas, his first-ever there, ended his 47-race winless streak and ran his career-win count to 82. That puts him one behind Cale Yarborough, who is fifth on the all-time win list. Three more victories would push him past Darrell Waltrip and Bobby Allison, who are tied for third, leaving only Richard Petty, with 200, and David Pearson, 105 wins, ahead of him. All the drivers ahead of Gordon are long retired.

The 37-year-old Gordon is driving with renewed enthusiasm and focus this year, and the results so far indicate he's on track for more success down the road. His only finish outside the top 10 this year has been a 13th in the rain-shortened race at Daytona, where he won a 150-mile qualifier. Since then, his worst result is a sixth at Las Vegas. The rest have been fourth or better, and he now leads the standings by 162 points over his Hendrick Motorsports teammate Jimmie Johnson.

Tony Stewart (right) appears poised and confident as a team owner/driver this season. "With all due respect, he's a lot smarter than I thought he was," observes fellow Stewart-Haas Racing driver Ryan Newman.

BUSINESS SMARTS

Stewart's savvy in the office as well as behind the wheel

In one of Tony Stewart's TV ads for sponsor Old Spice, he's portrayed as being a dork as a youngster, one who didn't develop swagger until he started using his sponsor's products.

His parents say the real Tony was a far different young fellow. They remember a budding businessman who gave clues early on that he had what it takes to become a successful car owner in NASCAR.

Seven races into his first Sprint Cup season as both driver and car owner, Stewart has steered the Stewart-Haas Racing ship free of controversy. Both he and Ryan Newman are running well. Stewart finished a season-best third at Martinsville and backed it up with a fourth at Texas. He's now fifth in the points standings. Newman, after a difficult start, had back-to-back sixth-place finishes at Bristol and Martinsville and overcame a slow start at Texas to finish 15th and move up to 17th in points.

Always a go-getter

That Stewart is both content and successful as a driver/owner is no surprise to his parents.

His mom, Pam Boas, likes to tell the story of a young Tony participating in his church youth group's pizza sales. It seems that Tony always wound up in charge, organizing and motivating the other children.

His dad, Nelson Stewart, said his son was thinking about the business end of racing as soon as he started driving, in three-quarter Midgets.

"He went out on his own and did a T-shirt," Nelson Stewart said. "He never asked his mom or me about it; he just went out, found a company and had the shirt designed. He got a card table and a chair and got his mom to sell them at the track."

Nelson Stewart said he's never seen his son as happy at a Sprint Cup track as he's been this year. "I think [ownership] will work out," he said. "So far, he's exceeding expectations."

A people person

Much of Stewart's early season success is attributable to his people skills and business instincts. He's hired NASCAR veteran Bobby Hutchens to be his competition director, responsible for sending fast cars to the racetrack.

From his earlier days working for Dale Earnhardt, Hutchens has a track record of efficiency in the shop. His former co-workers at Earnhardt's shop often recall how he kept a 90-day planner in his office, and more important, maintained the schedule he laid out. That meant there was little standing around in the shop — people could look for themselves and see what needed doing next and when it needed to be done. Therefore, crew members rarely found themselves thrashing around on overtime to get a car to the track.

During the race at Texas, Stewart played the driver and owner roles from behind the wheel after a slow pit stop early in the race.

"Our guys had a couple rough spots on pit road in the beginning, so I just calmed them down, told them to take a deep breath and just slow down a little bit," Stewart said of his radio communications with the crew. "They had great stops the rest of the day. I am proud of those guys, they rebounded really well."

Among those impressed with Stewart's ability to navigate the tricky car ownership waters is Newman, even though he's known his fellow Indiana Hoosier for years.

"With all due respect, he's a lot smarter than I thought he was," Newman said.

"I knew he was intelligent as a race-car driver but from a business standpoint, a people standpoint, not that I never gave him any credit, I just didn't know how to give him credit. "I'd give him a lot more credit because of the things I've seen him do with the people around him."

Valuable experience

To be fair, Stewart isn't exactly a novice when it comes to owning race teams. He's fielded USAC and dirt-racing teams for years. It was there where his competitive nature first led him to create a winning organization.

"I can remember when we won our first World of Outlaw race in 2001 when we started a team, how proud I was then to be a car owner," he said. "I think that's kind of what has led us to today."

As an owner, he's more than pleased with his Cup teams' performance, even though as a driver, he's accustomed to winning fairly often.

"You have to keep it in perspective," he said. "That's where the car-owner side of knowing where we're starting, what we're up against. I like that success. I like that feeling when we have a good day."

"The success isn't just necessarily measured by wins, it's also measured by measuring yourself up against the competition and to know the teams that we were up against and that we're up against every week."

"When you're there to build this organization and to see these people come in from all these different great teams, and to see it grow, it makes that satisfaction of watching it grow that much greater."

But all that's not to say the old outspoken Tony has been completely put out to pasture. He said being his own boss won't keep him on the sidelines of a headline-grabbing controversy.

"If anything, it's made me feel like I could get involved in them if I chose to," he said.

But so far, one of his frequent targets, Goodyear, has been building tires to his liking, so there are no fights to pick presently.

"It's been easy to kind of stay out of the controversy," he said. "We've got enough stuff to keep us busy that I think it's a little better to put it all in perspective and realize that some of those controversies aren't worth the time and effort."

Car: No. 14 Chevrolet

Born: May 20, 1971
Hometown: Columbus, Ind.

This season: The two-time series champion left Joe Gibbs Racing after a successful 10-year Cup career to run his own team, taking over what was the Haas CNC team. Stewart is seventh in the Cup standings.

With the COT, track position, pit stops increasingly crucial

Jeff Gordon's win at Texas Motor Speedway seems to indicate once again just how difficult it is for a challenger to run down the leader in a superspeedway Sprint Cup race in the Car of Tomorrow and just how important pit stops and pit selection have become.

Gordon took the lead for good on the final pit stop, overtaking then-leader Carl Edwards, whose crew bungled the stop and dropped him out of the top 10 with 28 laps to go. From the drop of the final green flag on, Gordon motored away unchallenged.

"Our pit crew was keeping us in the game," Gordon said in his winner's interview. "But I really think that whoever was sitting here would tell you the same, that if they didn't get out front on that last pit stop, they probably weren't going to win. ... We were real fast right from the get-go, and then we faded a little bit, but we still got the win."

"Track position these days is so crucial. And as good as my car was out front there, it wasn't as good behind cars. I saw that happen for a lot of guys. It wasn't just us."

Fifth-finishing Matt Kenseth seconded Gordon's comments.

"You can look at the scoreboard and after everybody's done pitting, whoever re-starts in the lead is probably going to win," he said.

"You just can't pass in these cars like you could, and it's all about having perfect pit stops, and qualifying and doing the right things for track position. We just got ourselves behind."

Old-timers race at Bristol a ratings jackpot

If the TV ratings numbers for the broadcast of the "Saturday Night Special" old-timers race at Bristol Motor Speedway two weeks ago are any indication, there may be a future for some sort of senior circuit for NASCAR racers.

The live broadcast on ESPN2 drew a .9 rating, which doesn't sound too impressive unless it's compared to other cable sports programming.

ESPN spokesman Andy Hall offered the following comparisons. The first three Nationwide Series races broadcast on ESPN2 this year have an average rating of 2.1, and that's the highest rated of any series the network carries, racing or otherwise.

The old timers did very well compared to other motorsports on ESPN2. The NHRA's average for the finals of 24 races last year averaged 0.6. IndyCar races were a tick better at 0.7.

And they weren't far off college football. The 53 regular season games on ESPN2 last year averaged 1.1.

Network officials seem happy with the numbers drawn to the initial "senior" race.

"That's tremendous," Julie Sobieski, ESPN vice president, programming and acquisitions, wrote in response to an e-mail query. "Considering that we were up against the first round of the NCAA tournament, we're very pleased."

Many fans and viewers thought it odd that Sterling Marlin, who led every lap of the legends event and raced in the Sprint Cup race the next day, and some other relatively young drivers like Rusty Wallace and Terry Labonte were racing against others in their 70s.

Bristol Motor Speedway Vice President Wayne Estes said in e-mailed comments that Marlin and the others were invited because they fit the format of former Bristol winners.

"In regards to having more current drivers in the field, we invited

"Take the young guys out and let just us old guys race."

— Cale Yarborough

Sterling Marlin to participate in the Saturday Night Spectacular before older drivers such as Cale Yarborough and 77-year-old Junior Johnson actually agreed to race," Estes wrote. "And when we did, Sterling was not a full-time competitor and it was long before he actually was entered in the Food City 500. After you extend the invitation, you certainly don't want to withdraw it, so we moved ahead, satisfied that it would be very entertaining simply to see Harry Gant, Jack Ingram, Cale Yarborough and Junior Johnson back on the track again."

The question now is will the race happen again, and what will be the format.

"I talked to Cale Yarborough and his comment was, 'Take the young guys out and let just us old guys race.' That seems to be the prevailing feeling," Estes wrote.

Bidding quiz

Your right-hand opponent opens with Four Hearts, both sides vulnerable. What action would you take with each of the following four hands?

- ♠AQJ84 ♥6 ♦K9 ♣Q9732
- ♠AK95 ♥— ♦KQJ10 ♣QJ863
- ♠KQ7 ♥QJ96 ♦A85 ♣984
- ♠K6 ♥— ♦AK109 ♣AKQJ972

1. Pass. The main purpose of a pre-emptive bid is to make it difficult for the opponents to enter the bidding. So if you happen to hold this hand against a four-heart bid, it is not easy to decide whether to pass or bid four spades. You are truly between a rock and a hard place. If you are by nature a fearless competitor, you will bid four spades and hope the roof doesn't cave in on you. If you are by nature cautious, you will pass and hope for the best. Either way, you won't feel comfortable.

Probably 60 percent of experts would pass, but a highly respectable 40 percent would boldly enter the fray with four spades and take their chances.

2. Double. Your partner might elect to pass the double, which is intended primarily for takeout, but even though you may feel this is undesirable, you have no reasonable alternative. The dilemma you face merely emphasizes how bothersome a pre-emptive bid can be. If partner does pass, it may well turn out that the best possible result is to defend against four hearts doubled and beat it one or two tricks when there is no game your way.

3. Pass. Here you expect to beat four hearts, but you dare not double because partner is likely to bid rather than pass, and your side will wind up minus rather than plus.

You may not exact the full measure of punishment by passing (if the next two players also pass), but it is not a good idea to get greedy in this type of ambiguous situation, where the potential for disaster lurks right around the corner.

4. Six clubs. Here you should bid what you think you can make. Of course, you may go down, but against that you must weigh the probability of making either 12 or 13 tricks. The best you can do in these sticky situations is to make the bid you think will win in the long run, and in this context a leap to six clubs should be regarded as the percentage bid.

Interstitial cystitis, often missed bladder issue

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am writing to ask if you would give me information on interstitial cystitis. I was told I had this after I had a polyp removed from my bladder. I know it has to do with the lining of the bladder wall. What causes it? What's the treatment? Does it get worse? — J.M.

Paul G. Donohue

ANSWER: Interstitial cystitis is also known as painful bladder syndrome. It's a fairly common condition that is commonly misdiagnosed. It affects more women than men. It occurs at any age, but typically, the onset is around age 40.

Frequently, a woman has symptoms for years and years and is told she has repeated bladder infections. Antibiotics, however, provide no relief. Trips to the bathroom are numerous, and nighttime urination disrupts sleep. Bladder pain can be severe. Urination often relieves the pain temporarily. Intercourse also can be painful. One explanation says the protective covering of the bladder lining has thinned or has disappeared, and urine irritants come in contact with the sensitive bladder lining to produce pain. How this comes about is something that isn't known with certainty.

Symptoms can get worse, but treatments exist. One is the oral medicine Elmiron. Amitriptyline and gabapentin are also used for pain control.

If you find that a particular food causes increased pain, stay away from it. Spicy foods, citrus fruits and juices, tomatoes, chocolate, coffee, tea, carbonated drinks and alcohol are some things on the list of irritants for many with this problem.

If you feel lost about the diagnosis and its treatment, contact the Interstitial Cystitis Association (800-435-7422; www.ichelp.org) for information on treatment and support for this mystifying ailment that can completely throw life into turmoil.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My doctor prescribed niacin to lower my cholesterol. After a month and a half, I developed shingles. Could niacin have caused this? — J.

ANSWER: I can assure you, without equivocation, that niacin did not cause your shingles.

Shingles comes from the chickenpox virus that stays in the body from the time of its entrance in the body until the time of that person's death. Mostly at older ages, the virus leaves the nerve cell it found a home in, travels down the nerve root to the skin and produces the typical shingles rash and pain.

Older people should consider getting the shingles vaccine.

Shingles is a painful experience, and the pain can last long after the rash has gone. The shingles booklet explains this common problem and how it's treated. To obtain a copy, write: Dr. Donohue — No. 1201, Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. Enclose a check or money order (no cash) for $4.75 U.S./$6 Can. with the recipient's printed name and address. Please allow four weeks for delivery.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I read in your column about Vaniqa cream to stop the growth of facial hair and used a tube of it. Then I asked my doctor for a repeat prescription. He said the cream was no longer being made. Apparently production costs exceeded revenue. A check of local pharmacies confirmed this. I just wanted to update you on it. — P.W.

ASK THE DOCTOR

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him or request an order form of available health newsletters at P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

ANSWER: Thanks so much for writing. However, I just finished speaking to the company that makes this cream, and they tell me they are still in business and are still producing the product. If you want to check, the Website is www.skinmedica.com.

It's not a wonder cream, but it is pretty effective in controlling facial hair growth in women.

Celebs shake off R-rated reputations on 'Dancing'

By ERIN CARLSON
AP Entertainment Writer

NEW YORK — Not so long ago, rapper Lil' Kim perpetuated an X-rated public image that could make even the baddest girls blush.

Her raunchy roster of songs include the hit "Magic Stick" and lyrics much too graphic to repeat and she has jail creds, serving 10 months in prison for lying to a federal grand jury about a 2001 gun battle outside a New York radio station.

But now — nearly two years out of jail — Kim haunts the PG-rated pastures of "Dancing With the Stars." Watching her twirl like a princess in floaty chiffon and weep with joy after her successful Argentine tango, it's easy to forget the wild woman who wore a purple pasty on an exposed breast on national TV.

along with more wholesome contestants like Olympic gymnast Shawn Johnson. After her well reviewed performance Monday, the rapper said the ABC dance competition was "bringing out the sensitive side of Little Kim."

Which begs the question: Is "Dancing With the Stars" the new rehab? With each season, celebrity dancers of varying degrees of infamy seek redemption on the family show through a Total Image Overhaul. But witnessing, say, a formerly jailed rapper shake her bon-bon (and ex-con status) might be part of the cheeky fun.

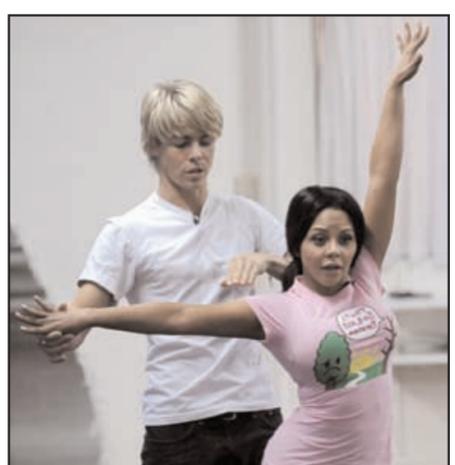

"The strange thing is a lot of people have been on the show who do come from a more slightly edgy background or who have got a reputation possibly for being more edgy — when they get on the show, tend to be very likable," says executive producer Conrad Green.

"There's something about the rosy glow of 'Dancing With the Stars.' It's kind of hard (to resist) even if you're ... a bad boy, you start wearing sequins and playing the game."

The eighth season of the top-rated series recruited some other bawdy contestants: "Jackass" daredevil Steve-O, who recently completed rehab after battling drug addiction; Denise Richards, whose messy divorce from Charlie Sheen branded her a tabloid target; and possibly Holly Madison, former Playboy playmate and girlfriend of Hugh Hefner.

Newly published author shies away from glare of limelight

DEAR ABBY: I have recently enjoyed the success of having my first book published. However, this achievement has begun to change my life in ways I hadn't expected.

Jeanne Phillips

I am a somewhat shy and reflective person by nature, preferring to live quietly rather than being in the spotlight. Having the freedom to spend time with my family and to enjoy the little things in life is more important to me than success.

than just writing. You are among the lucky few who has been published, and you now have a responsibility to yourself and to your publisher to promote your work and do public relations.

This is a window of opportunity that won't last indefinitely, and it's important that you recognize that fact. In case no one has mentioned it, every business involves relationships. Meeting people of all kinds will prove valuable to you in the future — long after the hoopla of this book has died down.

I am meeting more "important" people than I can remember, and I am struggling to keep up. My inbox is inundated with questions, appointments and invitations. I am expected at speaking events and signings that don't feel entirely authentic. I know I would be an idiot not to embrace these opportunities, but I am becoming more and more uncomfortable and stressed. Maybe this just isn't me.

Angels rookie killed in auto mishap

BY GILLIAN FLACCUS
Associated Press Writer

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Los Angeles Angels pitcher Nick Adenhardt and two others were killed by a suspected drunk driver Thursday, a shocking end to the life of a rookie who had overcome major elbow surgery to realize his big league dreams.

The accident in neighboring Fullerton occurred hours after the 22-year-old pitcher made his season debut with his father in the stands, throwing six scoreless innings against the Oakland Athletics. The Angels ultimately lost the game, 6-4.

The team postponed Thursday night's game with Oakland, the final one of their season-opening series. Players planned to gather to remember their teammate, manager Mike Scioscia said.

"It is a tragedy that will never be forgotten," he said at an Angel Stadium news conference.

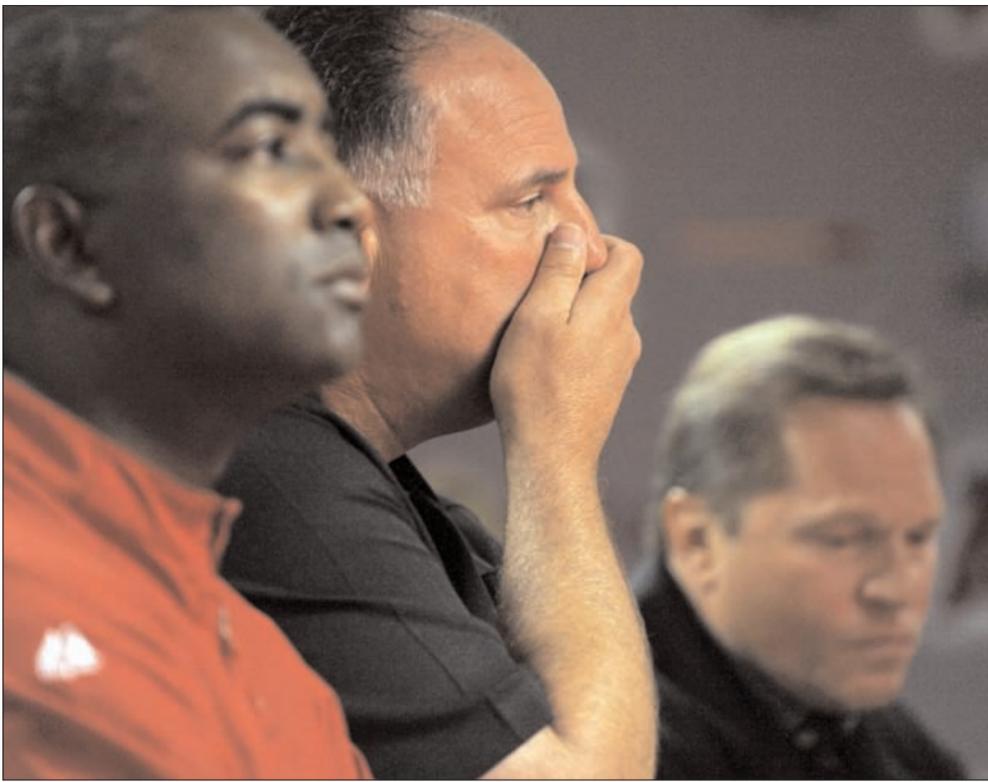

Adenhardt was a passenger in a silver Mitsubishi Eclipse that was broadsided in an intersection about 12:30 a.m. by a minivan that apparently ran a red light, police said.

The impact spun around both vehicles, and one then struck another car but that driver was not hurt, police said.

The minivan driver fled the crash on foot and was captured about 30 minutes later. Police identified him as Andrew Thomas Gallo, 22, of Riverside, and said he had a suspended license because of a previous drunken driving conviction.

Preliminary results indicated Gallo's blood-alcohol level was above the legal limit of .08 percent, police Lt. Kevin Hamilton said.

He said Gallo would be booked on charges of hit-and-run and driving under the influence, both felonies, along with vehicular manslaughter and possibly murder. A spokeswoman for the Orange

Los Angeles Angels general manager Tony Reagins, left, manager Mike Scioscia and Scott Boras, right, sports agent for Nick Adenhardt, appear at a press conference on Thursday.

County district attorney's office said charges against Gallo likely wouldn't be filed Thursday because police were still investigating.

Adenhardt died in surgery at the University of California, Irvine Medical Center. A 27-year-old man in the car and the driver, 20-year-old Courtney Frances Stewart of Diamond Bar, were pronounced dead at the scene, police said.

Another passenger, 24-year-old Jon Wilhite of Manhattan Beach, was in critical condition at UC Irvine Medical Center. Wilhite played baseball from 2004-08 at Cal State Fullerton.

Stewart's mother said her daughter and Adenhardt had known each other since last season but were not dating as far as she knew.

The mother said Adenhardt and the others had gone dancing at a club about a block away from the crash site, although the crash scene appeared to indicate the car was heading in the direction of the club, Hamilton said.

At the ballpark Wednesday night, Adenhardt did his job. He scattered seven hits over six scoreless innings and escaped twice after loading the bases in just his fourth major league start.

"I battled early and it felt good to get out of some jams," he said.

Adenhardt left with a 4-0 lead before the bullpen gave away what would have been his second major league victory.

"He lived his dream and was blessed to be part of an organization comprised of such warm, caring, and compassionate people," his family said in a statement issued through the team.

"The Angels were his extended family. Thanks to all of Nick's loyal supporters and fans throughout his career. He will always be in everyone's hearts forever."

Adenhardt had made a slow climb to reach the majors.

He hurt his pitching elbow two weeks before the June 2004 major league draft, when he was projected as a top-five pick out of Williamsport High in Maryland.

But the setback dropped him to the 14th round, where the Angels selected him. He underwent Tommy John surgery — a reconstructive operation on an elbow ligament — later that month and spent most of next four seasons in the minors.

Adenhardt struggled with a 9.00 ERA in three starts for the Angels last season, but Scioscia said last month the right-hander had worked hard over the winter and arrived at spring training with a purpose.

He was made the No. 3 starter as the season began this week because of injuries to John Lackey, Ervin Santana and Kelvim Escobar, all of whom are on the disabled list.

Tony Reagins knew Adenhardt from working with the Angels' developing players before becoming the team's general manager.

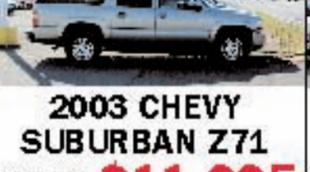

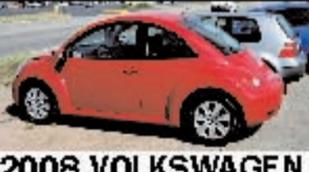

"Nothing ever really fazed this kid. He would deal with the peaks and valleys of development," Reagins said. "Last night we saw one of his peaks. He's just going to be missed. He's going to be greatly missed."

Adenhardt's father had flown out from Baltimore to attend the game.

"He told his dad that he'd better come here, that something special was going to happen," said Scott Boras, Adenhardt's agent, who wept at a stadium news conference.

 Q&A

Keeping the cat's bathroom private

Q: I know a common complaint of dog lovers is "cruising the litter box." We solved this problem by placing a heavy, covered litter box in a corner, with the opening toward the wall.

There's enough space for our cat to slide through and into the litter box, but not for our dog to get inside. Can you share it?

— M.M., via e-mail

A: Your strategy works great for cats who can tolerate covered litter boxes. Those with asthma should have open ones, though, so they are less bothered by the concentration of litter dust and other irritations.

Your note reminds me of the setup a friend came up with, designed to keep the dog out of the cat food. Her husband got a plastic milk crate, set it on its side and secured it with the opening in a corner. The cats can easily hop over the crate, through the triangle-shaped opening and into the crate where the dishes are. The dog can't fit, though, and is forced to watch the cats eating — a torment the cats likely enjoy immensely.

My solution is to put the cat boxes in my attached garage, accessible through a pet door the cats can get through but the dogs cannot. Baby gates work well, too.

When dealing with litter-box-cruising dogs, you always have to make sure your cat is comfortable with the arrangements you've made to keep the dog at bay. If you don't, you'll be finding little kitty offerings elsewhere in the house. If the cat's not happy, no one is happy!

Training can help get a puppy (or dog) to hush.

Q: My dog has a hair trigger when it comes to barking. What do you think about citrus-spray collars? Do they work? Are they safe?

A: The citronella spray anti-bark collar works fine with many barkers. I did Sheltie rescue in my area for a few years and always kept a citronella collar on hand for the noisiest of my foster dogs.

The collar releases a spray of citronella when activated by the dog's barking, but it's not necessary for the spray to get on the face. The collar really works by distraction: The "pffttt" of the spray being released catches the dog's attention, as does the pungent smell. The dog can't resist taking a whiff, and since he can't bark and sniff at the same time, the disagreeable activity is halted.

You probably don't want your dog to wear such a collar forever, though, so you might ask your veterinarian for a referral to a trainer or behaviorist who can help you with a long-term solution to the barking problem.

Achoo! Achoo!

Pet allergies can be managed but not eliminated for most sufferers

By Dr. Marty Becker and Gina Spadafori
Universal Press Syndicate

When other allergy triggers kick in, living with sneeze-triggering pets becomes even more problematic. That's why treating all your allergies aggressively will help make living with pets far easier when pollen is released in the spring.

If you can get a good night's sleep, you'll be better able to cope with almost anything, even allergies. That's why one of the best pieces of advice to those who are allergic to their pets is this: Declare your bedroom a "no-pets zone," at least during the height of spring allergy season.

That can be tough advice to follow for those of us who love to share our bedrooms, and even our beds, with our dogs and cats. (And studies say that's most of us!) For many allergy sufferers, though, establishing a pet-free sleeping area is a necessary compromise that will allow us to share our lives with pets despite our allergies.

Reduce allergy triggers further by keeping your sleeping area sparsely decorated with furnishings that do not attract dust, and be sure everything is cleaned frequently. Bedding should be washed often to combat dust mites, and pillows should be made of non-allergenic material, no feathers. Consider running a HEPA air cleaner in the room at all times.

The idea (both in the bedroom and outside of it) is to keep your total "allergy load" — pets and other things that trigger your allergies — to a level that you can live with or that can be controlled by medication. It's worth it to make an effort. Out-of-control allergies can make lives miserable and, in the case of asthma, can be life-threatening.

Here are more tips for those who have both pets and allergies:

- Limit exposure to other allergens. Avoid strong cleaning solutions, cigarette smoke and perfumes, and consider using a mask when doing yard work and housework, especially when pollen counts are high or your home is especially dusty.

- Let someone else do the dusting and vacuuming, if at all possible, and if not, invest in a vacuum that filters the air it releases. Allergy sufferers should also leave litter-box scooping to other family members to limit exposure to the allergens in cat urine. If that's not possible, again, wear a mask and wash your hands well afterward.

Pet lovers often need the help of a specialist to deal with the increased allergy triggers of spring.

- Keep pets well-groomed. The dirt and pollen that pets

"One of the best pieces of advice to those who are allergic to their pets is this: Declare your bedroom a "no-pets zone," at least during the height of spring allergy season."

pick up in their coats can be almost as bad as the hair and dander they generate themselves. It's essential for pets to be bathed frequently and to be kept combed and brushed. Ideally, a non-allergic member of the household should assume this responsibility. Even cats should be bathed, by the way: A weekly rinse of your cat in plain water has been shown to help people who are allergic to them.

- Work with your doctor. Medication — short term or for life — can make living with pets possible. While it used to be that many allergists recommended rehoming a pet as the first course of action, many have now accepted that pet lovers will often refuse. Allergists today seem much more willing to offer treatment options that accept pets as part of the family.

- Choose pets carefully. Do everything you can to make things work with the pets you have now. But when it comes time to adopt others, be aware that some pets may be better than others when it comes to allergies. In general, dogs are less of a problem than cats when it comes to allergies, and breeds like poodles and their mixes may be easier for allergy sufferers to live with than other dogs. The fur is not the problem, in any case, so hairless pets offer no relief.

There is no such thing as a completely non-allergenic dog or cat, however, no matter what you've heard or read. The best that you can do is to work with your allergist, take medications as recommended and manage your environment — and your pet's place in it — to keep all the sneezes and wheezes to a minimum.

Animals always put same foot forward

Many artists get it wrong when depicting animals walking.

- In animal art, the wrong foot is often forward. The way four-legged animals move has been well-known since the 1880s, when Eadweard Muybridge's motion-capture photographs revealed the sequence of leg movements. Animals walk this way: The left hind leg moves forward, followed by the left foreleg, right hind leg and right foreleg, in order. You'd think that since this knowledge has been around for well over a century that artists, taxidermists, toy designers and others responsible for depicting animals would get it right. But a study published in the journal Current Biology showed that out of several hundred depictions of walking animals in museums, veterinary books and toy models, the leg positions are wrong in almost half of them. The researchers from Eotvos University in Hungary studied depictions where it could be determined unambiguously that the animal was walking, and not trotting or running, as the leg movements may differ in those gaits.

- In comparing veterinary earnings for 2007 with other health professionals, the Bureau of Labor Statistics shows veterinarians averaged $84,090, compared with $101,840 for optometrists, $147,010 for dentists and $153,640 for family physicians.

- Fish have not always gathered as a school, according to Vocabpower. They can also be called a "shoal of fish," a shoal (shallow spot) being where fish were generally observed. Want more such words? How about a pod of whales, an exaltation or a murmuration of larks, a drove of pigs, a troop of kangaroos, a parliament of owls, a kindle of kittens, kettle of hawks and — our favorite — a scourge of mosquitoes. — Dr. Marty Becker and Mikkel Becker Shannon

Most 'dire warnings' shouldn't be passed on

A few years ago it was Febreze; then it was Swiffer. Now both seem to be in e-mail reruns again.

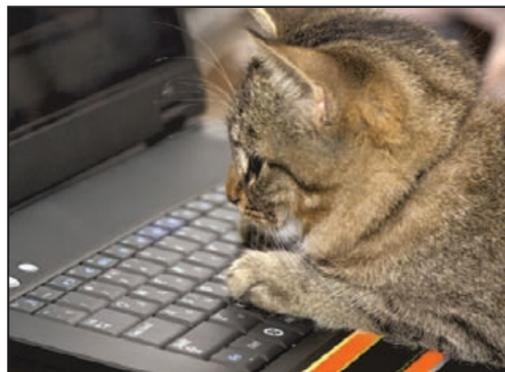

In the last several weeks I've received hundreds of e-mail "warnings" forwarded by well-meaning readers who in turn had it forwarded to them. The e-mail tells of a dog who died after walking across a damp floor that had been cleaned with the product and claims that Swiffer is "one molecule" off the chemical formulation of antifreeze, the latter a deadly risk to pets. The Febreze warnings seem to circulate regularly as well.

The dire warnings about both products are off-base. The Snopes Web site (www.snopes.com) debunks these as urban myths as does the ASPCA's Animal Poison Control Center (www.aspc.org/apcc). Both rumors may well have been originally sent into play by those with a grudge against manufacturer Procter & Gamble, which makes both products.

The bottom line on Febreze and Swiffer? As with all household cleaning products, read the label carefully and follow directions to the letter. And don't forward e-mail warnings that you don't know to be true. It's easy to check, and if something doesn't pass the sniff test, just hit "delete."

— Gina Spadafori

E-mail makes it easier than ever to pass along information — some of it wrong.

A sick bird needs vet help — stat

Can you give a cold or flu to your bird? Although the myth is a pervasive one, the answer is likely to be "no."

Because human colds and flus are always around, it seems to make sense that when a bird shows similar symptoms — congestion, coughing and such — the pet has the same gunk that has been floating around the rest of the family. But it's a good bet there's something else going on with your bird.

If your bird is showing cold or flulike symptoms, don't just figure the problem will pass in the same way a human bug will. Birds are very stoic when it comes to hiding symptoms of illness, and when a bird does show signs of disease, he's often quite sick indeed. So take him to an avian veterinarian, pronto.
